South Has Swung Toward Johnson

Latest Harris Survey Sees Landslide Trend

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Lyndon Johnson holds a landslide lead in the popular vote over Senator Barry Goldwater in a nationwide survey completed Saturday. On a secret ballot test, Johnson finishes ahead by 62 to 33 per cent, with five per cent undecided. This compares with a 60-34-6 division reported 10 days ago.

When the undecided vote is allocated, the standings of the Harris Survey as of Oct. 31 become: Johnson, 64 per cent; Goldwater, 36 per cent. Goldwater gets the break on the undecided vote because more of these voters have a Republican than a Democratic voting history.

To assess such a massive lead with pinpoint accuracy has no real political pertinence, in the opinion of this analyst. It involves as much coincidence as skill. What does matter is this: There is a trend toward a massive Johnson victory in the 60 to 70 per cent range, a landslide by any definition.

The most striking result of the final secret ballot is that President Johnson scores a dramatic six-percentage-point gain in the South, putting him ahead of Goldwater, 52 to 48. Our interviewing indicates a clear lessening of southern criticism of the president on his handling of racial matters and a clear gain on the issue of international responsibility.

The president now has a precedent-shattering 74 per cent lead in the East, and levels out at 62 per cent in the Midwest. In the West, Johnson has turned the tide from his recent low of 57 per cent and now stands at 61 per cent.

The key to the president's showing throughout the country continues to be voter confidence in his ability to handle foreign affairs, and voter uncertainty about how Goldwater would handle questions of war and peace.

This election campaign may well mark major changes on the political map of America. Key new voting patterns to watch for in today's balloting are these:

Suburbs—Johnson stands a better chance of carrying the normally Republican suburbs of northern big cities than any Democrat in modern times. What used to be the very heartland of Republican strength may be turning into a centre of independent voting habits.

South—Goldwater bids fair to be the first Republican in this century to carry small-town and rural counties in the South. He should do exceptionally well in south Georgia, north Florida, central Alabama, northwest Mississippi, northern Louisiana, eastern South Carolina, eastern North Carolina and southern Virginia—all havens of the traditional Democratic South.

Business—The difference at the polls between members of organized labor and their employers and business executives generally is likely to be less in this election than any other time in recent political history. Johnson may gain only slightly over John Kennedy's strong run with the labor group in 1960. But with professionals and executives, Johnson will register a sharp upward increase in the normal Democratic vote, perhaps a majority.

Minorities—This election will also mark a reshuffling of the voting pattern of key ethnic minority groups. For example, the largest nationality bloc, people of German descent, has been heavily Republican in modern times. In this election, Johnson has cut heavily into the German-American vote. On the other hand, he may not do as well among voters of Italian descent as did Kennedy, while he will probably roll up a bigger majority among Irish-American voters than his predecessor obtained in 1960.

One of the most sizable shifts, both in voting percentages and in turnout, will be among Negroes, both in the North and South. They are heading toward more unanimous support of Johnson than any single group has ever given any candidate for president in recent times.

It should also be noted that 1964 has produced a significant shift in campaign issues:

● This election could very well mark a major turning point in American elections for the presidency. Barring some inordinate domestic event, there is now every likelihood that in the future voters will base their decision dominantly on foreign policy and defence considerations.

● At the outset of this campaign, the two most important issues were foreign policy and civil rights. The race question has diminished in importance as election day has grown closer, with the white "backlash" in the North lessening in intensity. Meanwhile, events in the Kremlin and Red China have intensified voter anxieties over foreign affairs, especially among women.

● Senator Goldwater has scored some late points on the morality issue. But neither the Baker nor Jenkins cases have generated the same impact on voters as the civil rights question seemed to project in late summer. The senator has also struck a responsive chord with his criticisms of the welfare state.

44 Use Gander As Escape Hatch

Embassy Finds Mikes

WARSAW (UPI)—A wired microphone system has been discovered in the U.S. embassy here, an embassy spokesman said Monday. He said it apparently was installed by secret agents of Communist Poland.

The listening equipment was found Oct. 7, the spokesman said. Although the spokesman did not say how many devices were found, it was clear there were more than one. Observers were reminded of a U.S. state department announcement last May 19 that 40 microphones were found in the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

OTTAWA (CP)—The largest mass defection of Cubans into Canada occurred Sunday at the Gander, Nfld., international airport, the immigration department said Monday.

A total of 44 Cubans defected from a Cubana airliner after it landed at Gander for refuelling and minor repairs on a flight to Prague from Havana.

This brings to well over 200 the number of Cubans who have used the Gander airport as an escape route to join Cuban exiles in the United States.

An immigration department official said the Cubans have been granted temporary asylum in Canada in order to permit them to make arrangements to enter the U.S. This is normal procedure with Cuban defectors.

The Cubans now are being processed for temporary admission to Canada. They will be moved to immigration department quarters in Halifax, from where they will later move to the U.S.

The 44 Cubans included an elderly Cuban couple with a two-year-old child whose parents defected in a similar manner Sept. 15.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Five men, three of them from Vancouver Island, returned here Monday night after a weekend rescue that ended their three-day ordeal without shelter in northern B.C.

The five flew north last week to investigate a recent crash at Trapper Lake, 320 miles northwest of Prince Rupert, which killed four members of a prospecting team.

They had found the plane in 240 feet of water and were pulling it toward shore when they noticed their tent camp was afire. Nothing was saved.

RCMP rescue team members Sgt. N. J. Scobey, Capt. J. R. Lemieux and Cpl. B. J. Fitzgerald, all of Comox, and their companions huddled for three days in near-zero temperatures until an RCMP plane saw a "burned out" message stamped in the snow.

BURNED OUT
The five had food in a second tent but the radio was burned and their only shelter was shrouded brought along for the bodies of the victims of the earlier crash.

The other two men were transport department investigators Cy Leyland of Vancouver and Thomas Young of Richmond.

HEARD NOTHING
RCMP Const. J. Buckley of Atlin, 110 miles away, became concerned Sunday when he heard nothing on the radio. He knew the plane which flew the five men in had flown out again, so he flew to the scene and saw the snow message.

He returned to Atlin for help and later flew the five to Whitehorse Sunday night. A CPA plane completed the quintet's journey last night.

HILVERSUM, The Netherlands (Reuters)—The Netherlands got a taste Sunday night

Children's Treats Poisoned

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—Someone opened a front door to 12-year-old Beverly Louise and gave her four mothballs as a Halloween treat.

Two hours later, Beverly dragged herself home vomiting and crying. The girl, daughter of Mrs. Alex Louie of the Slammmon Indian reserve, spit the mothballs out almost as quickly as she popped them into her mouth. But the highly poisonous effects of naphthalene nevertheless lingered for more than 24 hours.

Dr. R. G. Goodall said Monday she apparently suffered no permanent ill-effects. He said naphthalene can be fatal. Police are investigating. "I don't think Halloween will mean the same to her ever again," said Mrs. Louie. "She told me she never wants to go out for treats again."

In Detroit someone with a vicious sense of humor distributed lye-imbued bubble gum to young trick-or-treaters in suburban Royal Oak township Saturday night.

of the scare that hit the United States in 1938 when Orson Wells broadcast his version of The War of the Worlds.

But this time, the radio audience that tuned in to a Hilversum program entitled Goldwater's New World thought they were listening to the start of the Third World War.

The program, complete with news bulletins carried in Hilversum's regular news-bulletin style, proved so realistic that the station was flooded with calls from frightened listeners convinced that war had broken out.

WEST GERMANY
Some calls came in from West Germany, where radio listeners had not heard the special announcements, broadcast before and after the show, nor seen the articles about it published in advance, explaining that it was just a scriptwriter's brainchild.

Goldwater's New World was based on the premise that the Third World War had broken out in Asia, three years after the election of Goldwater as president of the United States Nov. 1, 1967.

KENNEDY COUP

At one point during the program Robert Kennedy, backed by Americans "fed up with the president's dictatorship," staged a coup reported by a "rebel station." There was a commentary on the situation by Soviet "President" Mikhail Suslov.

But the portion of the program that apparently convinced most listeners that they were hearing the real thing said: "President Goldwater of the United States has announced that the presidential elections that were to be held in November, 1968, will be postponed until five months after the end of the war."

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (UPI)—A 48-year-old drydock worker was killed and four others sent to hospital Monday night when an explosion and fire rocked the Royal Canadian Navy aircraft carrier HMCS Bonaventure berthed here.

Reginald Skelton of Saint John was working with four other men installing insulation in the refrigeration room of the giant vessel when the blast occurred. Navy and drydock officials said damage was confined to the room and surrounding area in the forward section of the ship.

NO NAVY MEN

A spokesman for Saint John Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. said no navy personnel were involved in the mishap.

The exact cause of the blast is not known, and an inquiry will be set up today.

There were some 200 men working on the Bonaventure at the time. The four injured were taken to Saint John General Hospital, where three were treated and released after suffering smoke inhalation. The fourth was admitted to hospital, also believed to have suffered smoke inhalation, but his condition was listed as satisfactory.

CANADA'S LARGEST

Canada's largest naval vessel arrived here early in the summer for refit after a trip to Cyprus in which she carried Canadian troops and equipment for the United Nations peace-keeping operations there. She was scheduled to leave the drydock Nov. 12.

A spokesman for the shipbuilding firm said he expected the refitting to be completed on schedule despite the blast.

Action Needed

Policing Parley 'Limping'

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal provincial conference on extending RCMP contracts may be cut short "unless there's some action by tomorrow night," Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia said Monday night. (See earlier story, Page 5).

He made the statement after a day-long session of federal authorities and two premiers and six attorneys-general. The meetings started Monday and were to end Wednesday.

'LIMPING'

He said the conference was "limping along." The federal government had proposed "altering the basic cost computation" for RCMP services and changing the present 40 per cent provincial share to 55 per cent. British Columbia had no objection to paying additional costs of higher police salaries, more men or working conditions. The formula change, however, without extending service appreciably was under protest.

Nothing Done for Six Hours After Reds Blasted Planes

SAIGON (UPI)—Government forces delayed six hours before trying to track down the Communist guerrillas who inflicted a disastrous mortar attack on the super-secret U.S. air base at Bien Hoa. It was disclosed Monday.

There was no explanation, but Vice Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky said local Vietnamese military commanders had ignored two-month-old security proposals which could have prevented the attack which killed four Americans, wounded 35 and destroyed or damaged 27 planes, 20 of them B57 jet bombers, or about half of the U.S. B57 force in Vietnam.

U.S. officials refused to estimate the damage in dollars.

The twin-jet B57s cost $1,230,000 apiece.

Search troops found 82 empty cartons which probably contained the mortar bombs. The mortar shells were American-made and probably left over from the French Indochina war.

A U.S. spokesman said as few as 18 Communists could have carried out the intense 20-minute bombardment.

Nearsighted Caribou

Fancy Turned to Cows

MARYSTOWN, Nfld. (CP)—Caribou are nearsighted, and in the fall when a young stag's fancy lightly turns to love this can lead to complications.

A taxi driver travelling on a highway not far from here recently met a stag who had a problem over which even the lovelorn columnist might hesitate.

The stag was herding four white-faced heifers along the road. The cows were from the Flying L ranch located near here and the caribou was one of three transplanted earlier this year from the Newfoundland hinterland to Placentia Bay, on the Province's south coast.

The stag apparently wasn't worried about the difference in size. He weighed about 400 pounds while the cattle are about 1,200 pounds each.

A. T. Bergerud, provincial wildlife biologist, said caribou during the rutting season could easily become infatuated with cows. "When this fellow found out his mistake he probably went on his way and the cows went back to the ranch," he said. Could the Flying L expect little "cowbous" in the spring? "A biological impossibility," said Mr. Bergerud.

Labor's New Britain Will Be Born In Medieval Style

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—By a paradox that could only happen here, the Queen today will unveil the Labor government's blueprint for a New Britain amid scenes of medieval pageantry dating back nearly 700 years.

The state opening of Parliament brings together for one day in the year the workaday world of government and the fairy tale glamour of the court, and does so with the unparalleled panache that Britain brings to her great ceremonial occasions.

From the moment the Queen drives out of the gates of Buckingham Palace in her gilded coach drawn by six grey horses until the moment 25 minutes later when she sits crowned and robed in the House of Lords and the lord chancellor hands her the speech outlining the government's legislative program, the sequence of events in its color, timing and drama is one of the most brilliant pieces of stage management in the world.

CANADIAN INTEREST

This year the occasion has a special Canadian interest, for the man who will lead the Queen in procession to the throne of the House of Lords is Dr. Conrad Swan, born in Duncan, B.C., Dr. Swan, an apprentice herald, bears the resounding title of Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms.

Today, for the second time in her reign, the Queen will not be accompanied by her husband at the state opening, because Prince Philip is in Latin America. Instead, as in 1956, when Philip was abroad, Princess Margaret will sit beside the Queen on the drive to Westminster.

The Queen always wears a long evening dress, usually white, a white fur wrap and a diamond headpiece known in the palace simply as "the Diadem." It looks like a cross between a tiara and a coronet.

GREY-WIGGED LORDS

Meanwhile, in the red and gold chamber of the lords, tension builds up among the massed ranks of robed peers and peeresses, grey-wigged law lords and rows of foreign ambassadors, many in ceremonial dress.

In the cellar below the chamber, the tudor-cumtured Yeomen of the Guard—the Beefeaters—search for signs of sabotage, a relic of Guy Fawkes' abortive plot to blow up Parliament in 1605.

Suddenly trumpets sound in the distance. The Queen has arrived at the robing room—where today she will be met by Dr. Swan in his scarlet velvet tunic—and the Royal Standard breaks out on the Gothic tower overhead. Guards in breast plates snap to attention, the lights dim theatrically, the lords rise, and the Queen in her robes and now wearing the imperial state crown, enters.

SUMMON COMMONS

Acknowledging the bows, she takes her seat on the golden throne and says "my lords, pray be seated." This is the signal for Black Rod to summon the lower house with three heavy blows of his staff upon the door of the Commons.

The sober-suited members squeeze into the Upper House. Prime Minister Harold Wilson walking with his Conservative predecessor, Sir Alec Douglas-Home. The lord chancellor, Lord Gardiner, hands the Queen her speech and steps backward.

Its contents have been a closely guarded secret. Not until the Queen speaks her first words will press and public know how the new socialist government plans to bring about its New Britain.

RCN Soon Getting Carrier-Type Ships

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (UPI)—The Royal Canadian Navy may soon scrap three wartime frigates and acquire new carrier-type vessels designed to meet transport needs of a peace-keeping force.

Associate Defence Minister Lucien Cardin told a news conference Monday that the government will make public a new naval program "within two or three weeks" when the ship swap could be made.

Mr. Cardin, who came to this U.S. naval station to take in Exercise Yeoman, told reporters the impact of Canadian peace-keeping efforts has created "a need for sea lift capacity."

Almost all of the navy's existing vessels were designed specifically for anti-submarine warfare, one of the navy's prime commitments as a force in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

HMCS Bonaventure, the 20,000-ton aircraft carrier now undergoing annual refit at Saint John, N.B., proved its worth as a troop and equipment carrier in the Cyprus crisis.

But beyond Bonaventure, the navy's transport capability is strictly limited.

MY JAMAICAN BABY

The middle-aged Canadian expectant mother was panic-stricken at the prospect of having her baby in Jamaica under what seemed relatively primitive conditions. The discovery while rum was used for disinfectant was only her second most amazing experience. An unusual human interest story that will appeal to all mothers and mothers to be.

Shock Wave Warning

SEATTLE (AP)—A $375,000 seismic warning station will be built by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey 10 miles northwest of Newport, in north-east Washington. Sen. Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) announced Sunday.

Students Fined Over Dancer

HAMILTON (CP)—A spokesman for McMaster University said Monday six students have been fined $20 for their part in smuggling a strip-tease artist into a men's residence during homecoming celebrations at the university a week ago. The students were also placed on one-year probation by dean of men Ivor Wynne.

Sen. Jackson said the geomagnetic and seismic observatory will be the only one between Sitka, Alaska, and Tucson, Ariz. Construction will be started early next year and completed before winter.

The observatory will be part of the Pacific seismic sea wave warning system, which alerts coastal communities to the danger of tidal waves. "It was this system which lives," Sen. Jackson said.

If you're trying to get the most for your insurance dollar, the tape-recorded comments of Russ Jackson may help you:

Russ Jackson talks about doubling his money with London Life

Why did Russ Jackson—football player and mathematics teacher—choose a $25,000 Jubilee whole life policy? Russ gave his reasons in a tape-recorded conversation in his Ottawa home. Here they are—in his own words:

"There are not too many places where you can double your money as well as protect your family."

This one comment sums up Russ Jackson's reasons for buying a London Life Jubilee policy. It's interesting to hear him explain the steps that led up to this investment.

"Being in the position I'm in, I have a lot of insurance people who contact me and try to get me to take insurance policies of one sort or another."

"But I had known some people in London Life and when a chap here in Ottawa—contacted me, I was ready for insurance and more than willing to talk to him."

Why did Russ feel he was "ready for insurance?"

"I was married in 1961 to a Hamilton girl, Lois. We now have two youngsters—a boy, Kevin, and a little girl, Suzanne."

"This policy gives my wife protection if anything should happen to me and would enable her to carry on what I think would be a fairly normal life."

Protection is one side of his Jubilee whole life policy. Investment is the other. Russ looked into this thoroughly.

"As many people know, bonds and investments are part of the Grade 13 Algebra course. Teaching this to the students at high school has made me aware of all the pitfalls and possibilities in this type of investment. I believe the mathematical background has helped a great deal in evaluating this London Life policy."

"My monthly premiums are $34.58."

"If I live to age 65, I will have paid in—being 28 at present—a little over $15,000. And if I leave my dividends to accumulate, which I plan on doing, then this policy can be worth over $30,000."

"This would be double the amount I would have paid in premiums."

(Note: the $30,000 figure Russ mentions above is made up of $13,600 guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. These dividends are based on the 1964 dividend scale. While they are not guaranteed, London Life has had an outstanding record of dividend growth. For example, since 1951 the dividend rate has been increased seven times.)

"I have to admit it's a long-term investment—you're not going to make a lot of money quickly—but the protection that you get with it makes it extremely attractive."

London Life insurance is flexible. Here are three of the choices Russ will have when he reaches age 65:

- He can continue to pay premiums on his $25,000 policy and continue to build savings.
- He can withdraw his $30,000 or so as a lump sum.
- He can use his savings to provide an annuity for life or for a set number of years.

Russ talked briefly about one other feature of his insurance program:

"I also have what is known as an income continuance. This extends through to May, 1984, and guarantees Lois—if anything happens to me between now and 1984—$200 a month, every month, until that date in '84. The purpose of this is to guarantee my children—who are very young now—the chance of going to college."

(This income would be in addition to the $25,000 provided by Russ' Jubilee policy.)

Russ Jackson's story is not unusual. Today, most young men know they need insurance to protect their families. Many of them are discovering they can also double their money with London Life. A representative of the Company can show you how.

Most Disturbing

THE PUBLIC is not likely to be amused by the squabble about who or what is to blame for the empty beds at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Nor are sick people denied admittance whose state of health demands immediate hospital care.

It is shocking that for a year past around 100 beds have been lying idle with patients clamoring for entry, nor is it surprising that doctors should be forced to speak out because of the frustration they encounter every day. They are the individuals faced with telling patients they can't put them in hospital even though they know that is where they should be.

The reasons advanced for the bed shortage are neither comforting nor convincing. The beds are there. It is the job of those concerned with providing the facilities to see that these are used. Nor is public response to financial appeals to build new wings likely to find future favor if such enlargement does not result in more beds being available.

We are told on the one hand that there is a shortage of staff, on the other that the cause is a restricted budget; there is talk of political pressures and of administrative responsibility. Obviously above all else there is a decided lack of the kind of co-operation that is essential for the operation of the hospital.

One does not easily absorb the excuse of a budget deficiency in a province which has $300,000,000 to spend on a highway to Alaska.

If more staff are needed pains should be taken to amend this by intensive training programs that will induce recruits; if money is at the root of the problem the BCHS should revise its allotments; if there is administrative fault that should be rectified.

Above all the situation calls for immediate attention, so that the absurdity of empty beds in a community that requires every single one of them put into use, will be ended.

The hospital board and the health minister are the agencies which can right matters by getting together to iron out the problems with but one cardinal thought in mind: the compelling need of many people to get the hospital treatment necessary for their health and welfare.

The polemics, the personal toes tramped on; these are of small account compared to curing a situation that is most disturbing.

An Unhappy Choice

WHETHER or not today's election in the United States will result in a new tenant for the White House, Washington's military directors must soon be forced to take a new and serious view of their present strategic and tactical plans in the continuing battle for South Viet Nam.

The daring raid carried out by Viet Cong rebels over the weekend which resulted in the destruction of a large number of American and Vietnamese fighter and bomber aircraft as well as the deaths of several U.S. servicemen, points up the fact that the United States has a war on its hands in Southeast Asia whether it wants it or not.

Furthermore it underlines the growing suspicion that neither the local command in South Viet Nam nor its headquarters in Washington seem able to realize what kind of enemy they are up against.

For the past year the situation in South Viet Nam, both militarily and politically, has steadily been worsening. At the moment some 100,000 Communist regulars and irregulars from the north seem to have the matter well in hand, able to hit American and Vietnamese forces when and how they like with little danger to themselves.

Meanwhile in the questionable democracy of South Viet Nam, the game of change-the-leader still goes on with almost as much frequency as Washington swaps its military and civilian advisers to that insecure republic.

If the United States hopes to stabilize the situation in this, its major Asiatic theatre of operations, it must either make up its mind to abandon South Viet Nam or stay and fight.

If it abandons the South-Vietnamese government now, as some influential Washington quarters are strongly advocating, the United States would undoubtedly lose whatever face it still possesses in the Orient. However, if it stays, it must be prepared to hit back, which is something it has apparently been reluctant to do until now.

It cannot be denied that this is an unhappy choice, but it is one which will have to be made—and made soon.

Gaining an Asset

THE DECISION of the Canadian Pacific Railway not to renew its lease on the Crystal Garden property, and thus to allow the building to revert at the end of the year to Victoria, can be welcomed as rounding out city owned and operated recreational resources with little prospect of adding to taxation. In fact, on its record in recent years, there would seem to be a good chance that with efficient and energetic management it might return a significant profit to lighten the cost of other sources of community enjoyment.

The suggestion that a standing committee of city council ought now to be formed to supervise the operation of all of Victoria's recreational facilities is a logical outgrowth of the impending addition of the Garden to the list of these accommodations. Such a committee, with a civic recreation department working under council direction on its advice, certainly could be expected to produce a well balanced and co-ordinated program with a minimum of wasted or overlapping effort. In its purview presumably would be the Memorial Arena, the Crystal Garden, the McPherson Theatre, the senior citizens' centre, the athletic fields, and perhaps—if this should be developed by Victoria singly—at some future date a stadium.

The aldermen may well want to pause and consider, however, whether a council committee is in every way the appropriate body to take over the direct responsibility for such management. Having a separate arena commission, for example, frees them from personal pressures in regard to operating detail.

It may be that they should consider the pros and cons, at this time, of having a recreation commission appointed by and responsible to council as the supervisory and co-ordinating organization.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax

By TOM TAYLOR

SINCE this column has been bemused by color schemes lately, one way and another, I was intrigued by the mayor's new official gown.

And very nice it is, too. I incline to the ornamental and picturesque in matters of state—they lend dignity and elevate the mundane—and so His Worship's robe of black and gold is right down my alley, if I may be forgiven for lapsing into the vernacular in a context of this nature.

The colors suit the mayoralty function and status, perfectly.

In the heraldic realm black signifies prudence, wisdom and constancy; and gold as you know is the symbol of much that is good and desirable. Taken together they act as the harbinger of a happy and fruitful reign at the civic helm in the city's new and refurbished environment.

And that of course is what we would wish for the incumbent of the mayor's chair.

A reader thinks that when I cited a veteran's remark about a man disappearing from a duckboard into the mud at Passchendaele I was speaking as though this were but "an old soldier's tale."

By no means. I said I did not doubt the veracity of the memories exchanged when AB, CD and yours truly got together on the occasion I mentioned.

My friend was whimsical about the incident because the after years have shown matters in different perspective, but he was not callous.

In his own case my correspondent recalls that one of his corporals in a night-time party he was leading went missing, and a search forced the conclusion he must have stepped off the duckboard and sunk out of sight in a shell hole.

That either I would not doubt the veracity of the memories that was Passchendaele not to realize that many a good man must have fallen victim to the terrible and treacherous nature of that terrain.

But when old events swap yarns lightness covers the depth of their real feelings.

Canadian athletes at the Mexico City Olympics four years hence had better do their advance training on the prairies; better still perhaps, on our Up-Island Forbidden Plateau.

Their physical wear may depend on adaptation to this air.

The marathon winner at Tokyo, the Ethiopian soldier from Addis Ababa, predicts that he'll repeat his victory in 1968 because his home town is roughly at the same height as Mexico City (7,300 ft.).

And his coach is quoted: "An Olympic athlete will always do his utmost but few of them will have any idea of what the lack of oxygen can do to those who are not used to the altitude. Suddenly—blackout. There will be those that will die."

All writing in the Observer, Christopher Brauner, the runner who paced Dr. Bannister through the historic four-minute mile barrier, is fearful lest the Mexico City Games be labelled "The Death Olympics."

I hope the planners of our next Olympic bid are aware of these forebodings and take appropriate training measures.

America goes to the polls this morning, in a presidential election that invites immense Canadian interest.

Britain has recently changed its government; so has the Soviet Union, even if not by popular vote. A change of government at the White House could prove to be the most significant of all three reversals.

All eyes will be turned on the U.S. tonight.

Dateline: Europe

Looking On Calmly

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

A second important fact was the realization that on crucial international problems America could only follow one line. Washington's attitude is dictated by facts, which will not change regardless of which of the two candidates is elected. Despite some wild propaganda ventures people know that the one side in the contest is not influenced by Communists, while the other is not headed by a trigger-happy nuclear warrior. Because America is the first power of the Free World it cannot overlook the impact of its actions. A second-rate state may still indulge in political antics. Whoever has in his hand the greatest destructive force of history is compelled to act prudently. Enough criticism has already been levelled at Washington for its hesitations; in fairness one should admit that it is easy to talk when one does not carry the most awesome responsibility in the world.

Finally many Europeans have understood that the Americans, so far, have not the worst batting average when electing their presidents or taking an attitude. If there have been catastrophes like Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam, there was also the Truman doctrine, the Marshall plan, decisions in Korea and during the crisis in Quemoy and Matsui. This past experience justifies confidence in the future, on condition that the Europeans in turn fulfill their duty. Nothing is more pharisaic than to criticize the Americans all day long, without examining simultaneously one's own conscience.

These facts explain the attitude of a majority of thinking Europeans, who have felt that it was not up to us to take part in a campaign which was none of our business. The more we are disinterested the better. There are furthermore enough other problems worthy of our attention, such as the political unity of Europe, which is essential at a time when the world gets ready for the great East-West diplomatic confrontation. An increasing number of Europeans feel that we are not called to elect the next American president but to see to it that when the man chosen goes to negotiate with the U.S.S.R., he will have at his side a strong personality, friendly but independent, who will be able to speak with authority in the name of Europe.

Commonwealth Commentary

Parliamentarians' Exchange

By BOB MANSFIELD from London

THIS year's meeting of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, in Kingston, Jamaica, will be the largest ever held and almost certainly the most important. For the first time the Commonwealth prime ministers, at their July meeting in London, gave special attention to the work of the association and recorded this in their communiqué.

They were agreed on the desirability of substantially increasing contacts and co-operation between members of Commonwealth legislatures. This will doubtless be discussed at the Kingston meeting.

Other recommendations of the Prime Ministers' Conference will also be debated. Most far-reaching of all, for the future of the Commonwealth, was the decision to set up a Commonwealth Secretariat. This is an epoch-making institutional advance in a loose grouping of countries that have always been very chary of organizational commitments.

The number of Commonwealth MPs and parliamentary officials attending will be around 180, which is about 20 more than at last year's meeting in Malaysia.

One of the reasons is that four more countries, having become independent, will be sending delegations of three or more MPs instead of only one, which is the usual representation for dependent territories.

All the independent Commonwealth countries will be represented, with the exception of Cyprus, which has not so far joined the association. In addition, there will be MPs from about 50 other legislatures—all the Australian and Nigerian states, the Canadian and Pakistani provinces, some of the Indian and Malaysian states, and some of the remaining British dependent territories.

There will also be a strong delegation from the American Senate, which with the House of Representatives many years ago was offered and accepted associate membership. This gesture shows a mutual respect between the Commonwealth and America for each other's democratic institutions.

The associated group in the American Congress does not have part in the management of the association, nor is it represented on the General Council. Its delegates take part in other activities outside the actual conference, joining it only for the foreign affairs debate, always one of the most important items on the agenda.

The course of the Kingston meeting will be in accordance with established custom, which is designed to give the MPs time to study a different Commonwealth country each year "in depth", in addition to attending the annual conference. The delegates assemble today. They will split up into two parties for a week's intensive tour of the island. They return to Kingston on November 11 for a meeting of the General Council of 50 members, which lasts two or three days. The conference will be opened on November 16 by the governor-general of Jamaica, Sir Clifford Campbell, and close on November 21, which is the end of the whole meeting.

In accordance with custom, the chairman of the association is always a senior member of the branch in the country to be host to the conference. This year it is Mr. Donald Sangster, Jamaican deputy prime minister and minister of finance. As next year's meeting is to be in New Zealand, this year's vice-chairman is a New Zealander, Mr. W. B. Tennent, MP, whom it is expected the General Council will elect as chairman for 1964-65.

The annual meeting of the CPA, to use an overworked but here particularly apt metaphor, is the visible tip of the iceberg based on the great submerged mass of daily work and contacts that go on throughout the year. The CPA was established in 1911 as the Empire Parliamentary Association. Its name was changed in 1948.

Its aim, in its own words, is to "serve Commonwealth parliamentarians, and through them, the Commonwealth." It provides the machinery for regular consultation and the exchange of visits and information between Commonwealth MPs. Each legislature has its own branch of the CPA, with a secretary, and is financed by a grant-in-aid from its government. There is a growing feeling that the branches should in some way be provided with funds to make them independent of their governments. The central secretariat of the CPA, in London, is financed by contributions from the branches.

It has a secretary general with a staff of eight, housed opposite the House of Lords. The present budget of the CPA is in process of increase from $240,000 to $300,000. The British branch gets a government grant of $165,750, one-third of which it passes on to the General Council. At the July meeting of the prime ministers, Britain offered to increase its contribution to its own branch by $80,000 a year.

The exchange of parliamentary delegations is a major activity of the CPA. Invitations are issued by branches, with the assistance of their governments, to small groups of MPs from other Commonwealth countries to undertake study tours. Since 1962, however, the British branch, instead of inviting small groups of MPs at different times, has invited about 30 members from 15 branches simultaneously, believing they derive almost as much benefit from each other's company as from visiting Britain.

But by far the greatest amount of CPA time is devoted to "looking after" individual MPs from other branches who come on official, business or private visits. They are given working facilities, the "run" of the Parliament Buildings, any information and introductions they need, in some countries rail travel at reduced rates for themselves and their families, and so on.

The British branch also arranges regular courses, or more accurately an annual course in parliamentary practice and procedure under the most eminent experts in the country, attended by 25 to 30 members from overseas branches. Many of these are speakers, deputy speakers or ministers.

The cost of the course is shared equally between the general council and the British branch, and it is therefore a Commonwealth venture. Similar courses have been held overseas for the benefit of all the members of a particular parliament, and the British branch is usually invited to send a team of lecturers to these, including one government MP, one Opposition MP and the Fourth Clerk at the Table.

The specialized training of clerks of Commonwealth legislatures is not undertaken directly by the CPA, arrangements being made for their attachment to the department of the clerk of the House of Commons; but those who are on attachment (normally not less than three at any one time) are afforded the same sort of facilities by the British branch as are provided for visiting members.

Despite all this work, there is still not nearly enough movement of Commonwealth parliamentarians between the various countries. Those that lie at the main hubs of communications see many comings and goings. For instance, Singapore gets about 50 visits in the course of a year. Overall, however, only about two per cent of the Commonwealth's MPs set foot in another Commonwealth country each year.

To increase these movements, and make them as productive as possible, is the main aim of the CPA. This will be very much in the minds of the delegates to the Kingston Conference, and this is the reason, of course, for the proposal to make more funds available through increased contributions.

Ottawa Offbeat

A Score To Settle

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE Conservatives, long convinced that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation played a large and unfair part in driving them from power into the Opposition, have been mounting a campaign for an investigation by a special parliamentary committee into CBC affairs.

They are counting on an increasingly irritated public opinion to finally force the government into standing aside so that the controversial, expensive CBC at last will have to give an accounting to Parliament which pays by far the largest part of its bill.

For some reason which mystifies the Conservatives, the government still seems to feel compelled to run interference for the CBC, despite the undeniable fact that the publicly-owned and vastly subsidized broadcasting corporation, with its talent for trouble, continually embarrasses the Liberals.

Somehow the CBC, which costs the taxpayer an annual $86,000,000, has managed to insulate itself from Parliament.

In this session especially, the CBC has developed such an immunity to parliamentary criticism that it scarcely considers to offer an explanation when its more controversial programming and operations are questioned.

The Hansard Index lists more than 200 questions, the overwhelming majority of them critical, that MPs, mostly of the Opposition, have asked about the CBC.

Item: Why was it necessary to use nearly 200 people to cover the Canadian Open Golf Tournament?

Item: What did it cost to staff the Royal Visit with nearly 400 people?

Item: Why was CBC allowed federal land for a building site in Vancouver that the city urgently required for park purposes?

Item: When CBC president Alphonse Outmet's salary was doubled to an annual $50,000, how far down the executive line did the increase go and what did it cost?

Item: When there are only 60,000 bilingual listeners in the entire broadcast area why did CBC convert a popular Toronto English-language radio station to French?

Item: Why, despite a public outcry of protest, does CBC persist in producing television crime and sex dramas?

It is pointless to go on, for scarcely a day passes in Parliament that CBC isn't under fire and in such public and political hot water as would be the quick end of almost any other federal government agency.

But it is not pointless to ask—and the Opposition is doing just this, hammering away, day after patient day—why these questions are never answered satisfactorily.

This despite the fact that the CBC with its positive genius for antagonizing both politicians and public, doesn't stop short of embarrassing Prime Minister Pearson, Health Minister Judy LaMarsh and assorted other members of the cabinet in its seeming determination to display what a great many Opposition MPs are firmly convinced is nothing less than its contempt for Parliament.

The CBC likes to think of itself as independent of Parliament. But how independent can you be when you accept an $86,000,000 parliamentary handout?

In mounting his attack on the CBC Conservative Leader Diefenbaker has said that it's the business of the public and Parliament to know what the Broadcasting Corporation is doing with that subsidy from the taxpayer that runs just about a quarter of a million dollars a day.

While the Opposition correctly claims that it is demanding a parliamentary investigation solely in the public interest, there could be another, if lesser motive, too.

The Conservative—as now, in their turn, do the Liberals—think they have a score to settle with the CBC.

Perhaps Deputy New Democratic Leader Douglas Fisher put it best when he charged on several occasions—and without effective denial—that the CBC, in "loading" its public affairs programs and "slanting" its news, did much to torpedo the Conservatives in two stages, damaging the public image of the former Diefenbaker government in the 1962 campaign, and sinking it in the '63 election.

Then, too, there is this... Many parliamentarians, including some extremely highly-placed Liberals, suspect that the CBC has played an important if not key role in Quebec separatism and the not-so-quiet revolution of French Canada.

The things that have been seen and heard on the CBC French network—nationalist Quebec Resources Minister Rene Levesque for years was one of its "stars" in the public affairs field—were seldom if ever seen and heard on the English network. What troubles Parliament is that much of the stuff over the Quebec stations of the CBC is still on the wild side.

'Limit Flag Debate'

Party Leaders Meet, Seek Action

OTTAWA (UPI) — The government heard calls from two minority leaders for a debate time limit and closure to clear Parliament of the flag issue in a 42-minute party leaders' meeting Monday.

The leaders met briefly in the office of Prime Minister Pearson and left to report back to their members' results of what they variously described as a "reasonably successful," "optimistic," and "worthwhile" meeting.

A second meeting is scheduled for Friday.

Opposition leader Diefenbaker, who refused comment on the way in, came out with the same attitude.

Pressed for comment, he snapped "I said no comment. Isn't that clear enough?"

New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas and Real Caouette, leader of the Creditistes, were more cheerful.

Mr. Douglas described the meeting as "reasonably friendly" and said the leaders were taking "propositions" back to their various groups. He wouldn't say what they were or who they came from.

Mr. Caouette said he felt "A-1" following the meeting. He said there had been a good discussion.

Before going into Pearson's office, Mr. Douglas said he would rather see the flag issue put aside and have Parliament continue with more important matters. But if it were brought up now in the Commons, he would be in favor of a time limit on debate.

Mr. Pearson didn't appear before reporters as the meeting began.

NEEDS MONEY

The crisis meeting was prompted by the tabling of the flag committee's report and the government's quandary in the interim supply debate which puts it in the position of needing money to carry on the nation's business by Nov. 10 or going to the people.

A Pearson spokesman said "full and frank" discussions were held. He said the fact another meeting was being called for later in the week indicated "a reason for modest optimism."

It was obvious the other leaders wanted action out of this meeting.

SHOULD BE SHELVED

Bert Leboe, representing Social Credit leader Robert Thompson who is out of the country, said the flag issue should be shelved for two years, while the government gets on with other more important legislation.

All three leaders said they saw no immediate election prospects.

Mr. Douglas said he was in favor of a one-week time limit on debate of the recommendation of the flag committee report. He said he would be in favor of only one speaker from each party to speed up clearing of the flag issue from the Commons.

DISDAIN VOICED

Pearson was understood to be asking for a two-week limit on the flag debate. Diefenbaker has said in the past he is against any time limit. He has also expressed disdain for the red leaf flag design and criticized the lack of unanimity of the flag committee.

The committee voted 10 to 4 in favor of the red leaf design. Diefenbaker said he would seek a plebiscite on the issue unless the committee came up with at least a 13-1 vote.

Mr. Douglas said if the flag issue couldn't be cleared up quickly, he was in favor of shelving it and having Parliament tackle more important legislation such as the labor code, redistribution, the Canada pension plan and railway legislation before returning to the flag.

Committees Set Up On Peacekeeping

OTTAWA (UPI) — Top delegates from three countries Monday were named to head three groups that will give intensive study to all aspects of peacekeeping during the opening day of the first international peacekeeping conference.

Gen. Mohammed Kittani, head of the Moroccan delegation, was elected chairman of the group to study command and control of forces involved. Maj. Gen. R.

Kaldager of Norway is vice-chairman.

Heading the group examining the problems of logistics is Maj. Gen. J. A. Ankrah of Ghana. Vice-chairman is Italian Col. Giuseppe Amati.

The third committee, studying legal, administrative and personnel problems, is headed by B. C. Mishra, first secretary of the Indian delegation to the United Nations. Vice-chairman is O. Biering of the Danish foreign office.

Wants Flag Adopted

Quebec Conservative MP Wins Liberals' Applause

OTTAWA (CP) — Leon Balcer, Quebec Conservative leader who has differed publicly with his chief about the proposed single-maple leaf flag, was given a loud round of applause from government supporters in the Commons Monday.

Mr. Balcer, spokesman of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, asked Prime Minister Pearson to give the Commons a report on the party leaders conference held earlier in the day to determine procedure involving the report of the Commons flag committee.

Mr. Pearson replied that the meeting was an "interesting and useful exchange of views" on the procedures to be adopted during the rest of the autumn. The leaders had agreed to meet again late in the week.

Mr. Diefenbaker represented the Conservatives at the talks. Mr. Balcer, in a statement on behalf of Quebec Conservative MPs, has called for adoption without delay of the flag recommended to the Commons by a special committee.

Mr. Diefenbaker has rejected as unacceptable the recommended design — a single red maple leaf on a white ground with a vertical red bar at each side.

Bargaining Ahead

RCMP Contract Terms Studied by Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives from eight provinces policed by the RCMP met here with federal government and RCMP officials Monday to review contract terms for the force to act as provincial police in the provinces.

Advance notice was served that there could be some tough bargaining ahead in the three days of meeting.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia said before leaving Vancouver for the conference that he planned to enter "a profound protest" about a proposal to increase B.C.'s bill for RCMP service.

He said the federal government plans to charge B.C. another $2,000,000 a year for the service, bringing the bill to just more than $4,000,000.

Mr. Bonner said the province would receive essentially the same service for the increased cost.

EXTENSION PLANS

A number of provincial proposals for service extension by the RCMP, which acts as provincial police in all provinces except Ontario and Quebec, also are to be heard at the meeting.

Justice Minister Favreau represents the federal government at the meeting. Attending besides Mr. Bonner are Premier Manning of Alberta, also attorney-general; D. V. Heald, Saskatchewan attorney-general; Stewart E. McLean, Manitoba attorney-general; Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick, also attorney-general; R. A. Donohue, Nova Scotia attorney-general; M. A. Farmer, Prince Edward Island attorney-general, and Leslie Curtis, Newfoundland's attorney-general.

Federal or Provincial

Indians Will Decide Source of Services

OTTAWA (CP) — Citizenship Minister Tremblay said Monday each Indian band in Canada will vote to determine the wishes of band members on proposals to extend provincial government services to them.

He told the Commons that those bands which express a desire not to avail themselves of provincial services will continue to receive service from the federal government.

Mr. Tremblay was outlining the "consultation" procedure at the request of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who questioned him about a two-day conference of federal and provincial authorities last week.

Mr. Tremblay explained that the kind of services involved include education, social welfare programs and community development projects.

He said the conference agreed that an Indian conference will be held in each province to which all Indians would be invited. There they could express their desires and opinions on extension of provincial services.

PERMANENT BODY

If it became evident from this conference that Indians generally want such a step taken there then would be consultation with each band and band council to see whether the band wanted to take advantage of particular programs.

Mr. Tremblay said that a permanent Indian committee will be set up for consultation on administrative matters involved in proposed extensions of services.

Frank Howard (NDP-Skeena) asked what the federal government's view was with regard to incorporating Indian reservations within school districts so that the land could be taxed.

Mr. Tremblay replied that no decision was taken on this idea. He said the constitution excludes Indian reservation property from such taxation and this provision cannot be abolished. Non-reservation property sometimes could be taxed municipally.

U.S. Nazi

Canada Bars Rockwell

OTTAWA (CP) — George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the United States Nazi party, is barred from entering Canada, Immigration Minister Tremblay told the Commons Monday.

Mr. Tremblay also said there apparently was no truth to a report that Rockwell visited Vancouver last week.

Replying to a question asked Friday by Frank Howard (NDP-Skeena), who said Rockwell was reported to have registered at a Vancouver hotel, the minister said a check was made at all border entry points without finding any record that Rockwell had entered Canada recently. The hotel hadn't seen him, either.

Mr. Tremblay said "all immigration officers are well aware of this man's particulars" and it was unlikely he would enter without being spotted.

Is Rockwell barred from entering Canada? Mr. Howard asked.

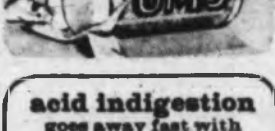

"Yes," Mr. Tremblay replied. In his original question, Mr. Howard referred to Rockwell as "this creep."

Mr. Tremblay also noted in his reply that a controversial CBC interview with Rockwell, carried Oct. 25 on the national TV network, was filmed in the U.S.

Resign Now Says Tory

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MP Terry Nugent said in the Commons Monday that the minority Liberal government should resign immediately "so that competent individuals can take over."

Mr. Nugent, a lawyer and MP for Edmonton Strathcona, speaking on the seventh day of a stalemate supply debate, accused the Liberals of neglecting their duty and throwing away important federal powers to the provinces.

Fraser Flood Control Calls for Single Body

By IAN STREET

New legislation to create a single Fraser River dyking commission may be placed before the forthcoming session of the provincial legislature, it was learned Monday.

BEST METAL PRICES IN YEARS

The Northern Miner's weekly review of base metal prices currently shows the highest levels in several years.

This makes a very promising outlook for Canada's base metal mines, which are such major exporters.

fore the forthcoming session of the provincial legislature, it was learned Monday.

Resources Minister Ray Williston said the government may be forced to set up the single authority in the face of urgent need for new flood control measures costing $4,900,000 along the lower Fraser River.

He said the need in the case of Kent municipality in the Agassiz district is "imperative" yet B.C. is powerless to act under provisions of the Canada Water Conservation Act.

DOG'S BREAKFAST

The trouble stems from what the minister termed "the dog's breakfast" of small dyking districts along the lower Fraser.

Under the federal act the cost of flood control projects is split 37 1/2 per cent by Ottawa, 37 1/2 per cent the province, and 25 per cent the local authority.

Local authorities in the Fraser Valley have all been approached, said Mr. Williston, and while some municipalities have agreed to share the cost, others feel they are already paying the maximum the residents can afford.

In Kent municipality authorities are willing to put up the local share but this portion of the flood control scheme cannot go ahead alone because projects must be over $1,000,000 to qualify for federal aid.

Mr. Williston said the need for strengthening of dykes in the Agassiz area is so great that B.C. has asked Ottawa to agree to an immediate start with the local share to be paid retroactively.

Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing said in Victoria yesterday that an interim application from B.C. had been received in Ottawa. He added that the federal government is anxious to start on the Fraser flood control project "right away."

DAMS, DIVERSION

The $4,900,000 dyking program is part of a $400,000,000 Fraser Valley flood control program, recommended by the Fraser River Board, a federal-provincial body.

It will involve eight dams and diversion of the Upper Fraser. Premier Bennett has asked Ottawa to share the cost of the project which would be capable of generating 1,000,000 horsepower, thus giving B.C. a three-river power policy.

The premier said yesterday B.C. has made a firm commitment to proceed and is awaiting Ottawa's decision.

Two other charges against Ronald C. Bennett, 1328 Esquimalt Road, were dismissed. He had also been charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident and with a careless driving.

STRUCK PARKED CAR

The charges had been laid following an accident, Sept. 19, in which Bennett's car struck a parked vehicle.

Nicholas Lupkowski, 631 Constance, told the court his car had received $248 damage while parked in front of his home.

Bennett had a record of similar convictions.

Meningitis Cases Now Confirmed

It has been confirmed the illness two Strawberry Vale Elementary School students are suffering from is infectious meningitis, Medical Health Officer Dr. G. P. Evans said Monday.

He said: "We now believe it is definitely infectious meningitis, but we do not know the exact type. There are many types of this disease," he said. The children, Brian DeVries, 8, and his sister, Lila, 7, are now being treated in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"It usually takes about one week to cure the disease, depending upon how the patient reacts to treatment," said Dr. Evans.

There have been no new cases reported and all children who were in contact with the DeVries children have been given preventive medicine.

"It's a case of one of the children infecting the other," said Dr. Evans, "and we may never know how they got it in the first place."

United Appeal Fund Now Nearer Goal

Money turned in by 5 p.m. Monday resulted in close to 80 per cent of the United Appeal's $410,000 objective being realized.

The total collections are now $322,925—78.8 per cent of the goal.

Donations are still being accepted by the head offices of the major banks and by three department stores who will issue receipts on behalf of United Appeal.

Supply Bill Comes First

OTTAWA (CP)—Government of the contributory Canada Pension Plan will be debated as soon as the House approves the bill preceding the latest version.

'They'd Better Hurry'

Mill Plans News to Him

Lands and Forests Minister Williston said Monday he hasn't heard anything official yet on reported plans of Weldwood of Canada Limited to build an $80-100,000 pulp mill at Quesnel.

"If they have plans they'd better let us know about them right away or it'll be too late," he said.

Mr. Williston said the only large untapped source of crown timber near Quesnel is a tract in the Cariboo already applied for by United Pulp and Paper Limited, a B.C.-Quebec amalgam.

United plans a $60,000,000 mill at Squamish and hearings on its application for licences on the Cariboo timber are set for the first week of January.

County Court

Jones Trial

Dec. 10

The trial in County Court of George E. P. Jones, suspended chairman of the provincial government purchasing commission, has been put over to Dec. 10.

Mr. Jones elected trial by judge without jury on two charges of receiving unlawful benefits from a city automobile dealer on the purchase of two cars.

'BY CONSENT'

T. P. O'Grady, who represented the accused at the preliminary hearing, said Monday that the trial date was set forward one month "by consent" to allow time for the instruction of counsel.

George K. Hankinson, former president of Pacific Chrysler, is charged with conferring the unlawful benefits.

He appeared in Saanich central police court yesterday and was remanded until Dec. 1, at which time a date for the preliminary hearing of charges will be set.

McKee Trophy

Aviation Interest Rewarded

Contributions to Canadian aviation over the past 40 years earned Ontario's deputy minister for lands Frank MacDougall the Trans-Canada (McKee) Trophy.

Presentation of the award was made to Mr. MacDougall by Northern Affairs Minister Laing at the Air Transport Association's convention luncheon in the Empress Hotel Monday. (See other stories on Page 17).

Mr. MacDougall, who has logged more than 5,000 flying hours, first became convinced of the usefulness of aircraft in forest protection and administration when with the department of lands and forests, which he joined in 1923.

Since 1941, when he became deputy minister of lands and forests, he has developed and extended the air service. His department is responsible for developing water bombing tanks for the department's fleet.

He is also credited with giving initiative and stimulus to the design and construction of the Beaver aircraft.

Tug Bought

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 160-foot tug HMS Cosulich has been purchased from the British Admiralty by River Towing Company Limited. She will be used to tow a new 11,000-ton log barge now building at Yarrows Limited.

Doctors Restore Severed Arm Of U.S. Athlete

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A five-surgeon team restored the severed arm of Oklahoma State University basketball player Bob Swaffar Monday in a six-hour operation at the University of Oklahoma Medical Centre.

A university hospital spokesman termed the re-implantation a success.

"It looks fine," said one physician, "and the patient's general condition is superb."

FREAK ACCIDENT

The hospital spokesman added, however, that it will be a few days before it is known whether the arm will survive.

Swaffar, a six-foot-nine junior, lost the right arm in a freak accident in Stillwater, Okla., late Sunday night. His arm was caught in a machine used to spin water out of clothes. He was washing clothes in the OSU athletic department laundry.

The arm was severed about midway between the shoulder and elbow.

PRAISE FAST WORK

Swaffar's room-mate, Gary Hassman, also a basketball player, said Swaffar was thrown away from the machine, but his severed arm remained wedged in the machine.

University hospital surgeons here praised the fast work of persons in Stillwater who rushed Swaffar to Oklahoma City Sunday night after emergency treatment. He was in the operating room at university hospital 2½ hours after the accident.

PACKED IN ICE

The severed arm was packed in ice for the 66-mile trip. A spokesman said although the bone was shattered, the arm was in good condition.

The five surgeons who performed the operation on Swaffar have worked together at university hospital for 2½ years on re-implantation techniques, principally on animals.

The hospital said a few re-implantations of the partially-severed body members have been performed on humans, but the operation on Swaffar was the first attempt at university hospital to restore a completely severed limb.

'Nikita Has Sclerosis'

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI)—

Danish Communist chairman Knud Jespersen said Monday that former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev had sclerosis and that this was a major factor in his removal from office.

Mr. Jespersen did not specify the type of sclerosis, but reports from informed sources in Moscow said Mr. Khrushchev, who is 70, had developed hardening of the arteries, and possibly even liver and heart ailments.

Mr. Jespersen would say only that Mr. Khrushchev was suffering from "sclerosis in connection with his old age." Sclerosis is defined as a "pathological hardening of tissue, produced by overgrowth of fibrous tissue."

Mr. Jespersen denied persistent reports that Mr. Khrushchev's ouster Oct. 14 was due mostly to his foreign policy failures, including the ideological war with China.

But he was told Mr. Khrushchev had made big mistakes, especially the agricultural policy, and these weighed heavily against him in discussions on his political future.

He believed that the Khrushchev line on foreign policy would be continued

Most Disputes Miss Deadline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Only nine of the 12 school districts in B.C. settled salary agreements within the legal deadline of Oct. 31, an executive of the B.C. School Trustees Association said Monday. Harold Stringer, assistant general secretary, said he expects the remainder will go to conciliation and those unsettled after Nov. 15 will be taken to arbitration.

Seaway Names Closing Dates

OTTAWA (CP) — Planned closing dates along Canada's Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River canals were announced Monday. Closing Nov. 30 will be the south shore canal from Montreal to Lake St. Louis and the Beauharnois, Iroquois, La-chemie and Cornwall canals. The Saginaw, St. Mary canal is to close Dec. 12 and the Welland Canal Dec. 15.

Charge Dropped Against Eight

VANCOUVER (CP) — Homer Stevens, secretary of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) announced charges against eight union members in connection with public sale of fish during the 1963 salmon fishermen's strike, have been dropped. The men were charged under a city bylaw with selling fish in the open air.

received from his parents for firecrackers, but Clarence felt he was old enough this year to do without them.

The boy's contribution and one from C. P. Deykin for $10, brought the fund to $1,774.83.

The objective is $5,500, to provide scholarships for young Indians, a memorial booklet to Chief Mungo and a plaque to the chief in Thunderbird Park.

The Indian Arts and Welfare Society hope for many donations, no matter how small, so that the memorial can be truly a citizen's one.

Contributions may be sent to either The Daily Colonist or the Victoria Times. Receipts will be sent and acknowledgement made in both papers.

The society hopes to reach $2,000 by the end of this week and urges you to send your donation today.

Building Figures

New Apartment Major Project For Esquimalt

An apartment building to cost $235,000 and to be erected at 1180 Colville Road is the major project for which building permits were granted in Esquimalt last month.

Major construction authorized by Saanich in October was for a Gordon Head Elementary School addition to cost $72,950 and a $65,000 Canadian General Electric warehouse to be erected at 816 Cloverdale Avenue.

MOORE HOMES

Four dwellings were authorized in Esquimalt for the month, total value $62,500. Saanich, however, maintains its lead in this field with 59, valued at $838,500.

For the first 10 months of this year, Saanich authorized the structure of 418 dwellings valued at $4,097,950 compared with 26 for a value of $102,007 in Esquimalt.

YEAR'S TOTAL

Total for the first 10 months this year for all types of building permits, with the comparable period for last year in brackets, is: Saanich, $10,780,344 ($13,092,415); Esquimalt, $1,648,969 ($1,583,087).

October building figures for Victoria and Oak Bay were not available Monday night.

Go for action in the Austin 1100

The Austin 1100 photographed at high speed on a railroad track near the town of Kleinburg.

Watch. At 45 m.p.h., wheels pounding over railroad ties, the Austin 1100 still rides dead level!

Read how the remarkable Float-on-Fluid suspension carries the Austin 1100 through the cruellest, roughest driving conditions you'll ever meet—smoothly, comfortably and safely.

You wouldn't dare put any other car to a punishing test like this. It would buck unmercifully. Springs and shock absorbers could be smashed. Chances are the car would go out of control. But thanks to Float-on-Fluid suspension, the Austin 1100 took this cruel treatment in its stride!

A stretch of back-country railroad track was chosen for the test. Handled by a professional driver, the Austin 1100, headed down the line. One set of wheels rode in coarse gravel, the others pounded over the ties themselves. Check the picture. Even hitting 45, the Austin 1100 held a safe, even keel—no pitching or bucking, completely under control.

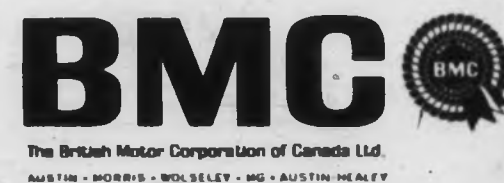

Under far tougher conditions than you'd ever meet in normal driving, Float-on-Fluid proved itself as the safest, smoothest suspension ever developed!

What's its secret? Float-on-Fluid is a completely new idea, patented by BMC. It actually floats you on a cushion of fluid. No springs or shock absorbers. Nothing to break down. No maintenance. You enjoy the Austin 1100's smooth ride—over washboard roads, potholes, half-finished suburban streets—completely carefree for the life of your car.

Ask Your Austin Dealer for a Demonstration. Check out the sporty performance and the disc-brake stopping power of the Austin 1100. Compare the family-car roominess. Above all, test the 1100's incredibly smooth ride. You'll agree, here's a car you'll own and drive with pride... because nobody puts more into car-making than BMC.

Marriage Course Mapped

A steering committee headed by Rev. G. H. Turpin has been set up for the forthcoming School for Marriage.

The school will consist of an eight-lecture course in January and February under the YWCA's adult education program.

Miss Lorna Cammaert, adult education director for the YWCA is on the steering committee along with Msgr. M. T. O'Connell, Rev. Bernard Hanley, Canon Hilary Butler, Gordon Wright, Family and Children's Service director, and lawyer W. E. Whitley. The course will include study of the place of the family in society; moral and spiritual preparation for marriage and legal and economic aspects with emphasis on budget, mortgages and home management.

Physiological, sexual and emotional factors in marriage also will be dealt with.

Smash and Grabbed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police were on the spot to arrest a smash-and-grab raid suspect early Monday morning. A suspect was under surveillance by city police and RCMP detectives when he hurled a chunk of concrete through a record shop window. Later, Neil Johnston, 41, of no fixed address, was charged with breaking and entering.

Victoria Voters' List Revised by Court

A total of 116 names were added to the preliminary voters' list and 100 deleted Monday when the Victoria court of revision sat in city hall.

The court, consisting of Mayor R. B. Wilson, Aldermen C. M. Parrott and Robert Baird, made 27 changes of address and authorized two changes of name.

The official list will be available to the public in about two weeks at 50 cents a copy.

Lacrosse Or Hockey?

By GARFIELD SPETZ

OTTAWA (UPI)—If the parliamentarians have their way, Canadians may have more national games than they can shake a stick—hockey or lacrosse—at.

A bill that would make lacrosse Canada's national game was introduced into the commons Monday by New Democrat Robert Prittie (Burnaby-Richmond).

A similar bill to make hockey the country's national game was given first reading less than a week ago after being presented by former Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president Jack Roxburgh (L-Norfolk).

Prittie said he was introducing the bill, sponsored by Barry Mather (NDP-New Westminster), to "rectify what was probably an oversight by the Fathers of Confederation who were so pre-occupied with drafting sections 91 and 92 of the British North America Act that declaring the question of a national game escaped their attention."

"The game is uniquely Canadian and was not imported as all other games have been," Prittie declared. "It has been played for an unknown period of time and was played by the native Indians."

The bill read that because lacrosse "has been played from time immemorial, has long been a sacred Canada's national game and because an attempt has been made to have a lesser game adopted," it should be the national game of Canada in both its box and field forms.

The "lesser game" was a reference to the hockey bill introduced last Wednesday by Roxburgh.

The Liberal backbencher said then that hockey should be made the national game because "Canada is hockey; hockey is Canada."

"Hockey with its dash, crash and smash truly represents the very tempo of our Canadian youth," he added.

Roxburgh said it was only through hockey that the countries of Europe came to know Canada and they recognized it as our national game.

"Older people always have taken for granted the fact that parliament has recognized lacrosse as Canada's national game," he said. "But upon looking into it, I found that parliament never adopted any such motion."

80 Per Cent for $11.2 Million

Deal Completed; CBS Buys Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees, lock, most of the stock, and Mickey Mantle, Monday officially became the property of the Columbia Broadcasting System with the formal signing of final papers in the much-discussed sale.

Monday's action, transferring 80 per cent of the Yankees' stock to the network, completed the deal which had been announced to the public on Aug. 15.

By the announced terms of the purchase, CBS paid $11.2 million for its 80 per cent interest — with $5.6 million each going to Yankee co-owners

Dan Topping Sr. and Del Webb. Topping and Webb each retained a 10 per cent interest, but CBS has an option to buy up those shares, too, within five years.

Although the sale had stirred up controversy in certain quarters, notably with owners Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City Athletics and Arthur Allyn of the Chicago White Sox who sharply criticized it, Monday's formal completion of the deal went as planned with no one putting up any road blocks.

NO DECISION

The Department of Justice in Washington admitted it has been studying the purchase for any possible anti-trust violations, but has not announced any decision as yet, one way or the other.

The formal signing was held privately. When it was over, CBS issued a short announcement saying that its "acquisition of an 80 per cent interest in the New York Yankees became effective today."

CHIEF EXECUTIVE

It added that "Mr. Dan R. Topping Sr. will be president and chief executive officer of the New York Yankees Inc., continuing his former function. Ralph Houk will be vice-president and general manager."

Webb will be a director of the Yankees under the new setup, but Topping and Houk are expected to be the operating heads of the baseball organization.

BEEN SUCCESSFUL

Although CBS will check the club's bookkeeping system and the like, it's expected that the network itself will have little to do with running the club, leaving that up to Topping and Houk on the theory that they have been mighty successful at the job so far.

Such matters as managerial or player changes, according to present plans, would be left to Topping and Houk, although CBS naturally will be kept informed.

MOVE OFFICES

The Yankees probably will move their midtown offices from their present location in a building on Fifth Avenue to the new CBS building a few blocks to the west.

However, come spring time the American League champions will be doing business at the same old stand at Yankee Stadium in the Bronx, and a club official repeated Monday a previous forecast that things will be bigger and better than ever.

"As was stated at the time of the original announcement in August, we think this purchase will help improve our ball club," said the official. "We think it's a good thing not only for the team but for the entire community."

Door Still Open For Yogi Berra

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees Monday received in the mail Yogi Berra's signed two-year contract as special field consultant.

The contract states, however, that the former Yankee manager has the privilege of making a deal for himself at any time if he so desires.

Berra, who is on a golfing vacation at Pinehurst, N.C., has been contacted by the New York Mets concerning a position with the National League club. He informed Mets president George Weiss before leaving that he would make some sort of decision when he returned.

Vancouver 10 8 3 0 44 39 10
Victoria 10 8 3 0 32 42 6
San Francisco 9 3 7 0 16 43 4

Sunday's scores: VICTORIA 4 at Portland 5 (overtime); Vancouver 3 at Seattle 5.
Next game: Toronto-Vancouver at Los Angeles.

Close doesn't count in hockey but, Victoria Maple Leafs are learning, near misses can add up to quite a distance between them and the Western Hockey League leaders.

Leafs performed in what is getting to be typical fashion again on Sunday night, losing 4-5, to the Buckaroos in Portland in the seventh minute of overtime.

It was the fourth one-goal defeat, their second in overtime, for the Leafs in their last five losing games and it left them with a 37 record and eight points behind the Buckaroos and Seattle Totems.

Once again showing the ability to rally but again displaying the knack of needing one more rally than they have, the Leafs were only six minutes from victory Sunday, blew the lead, came back to force overtime, and then lost on a shot by defenseman Pat Stapleton.

BANG BACK

After yielding a goal to Larry Leach in the second minute of play, the Leafs banged back to take a 2-1 lead into the second period on goals by Lou Jankowski and Fred Hucul. They lost it there as Tom McVie tied it up while Leafs played two men short.

John Slevner gave them the lead again at 12:14 of the third period, and then came that now familiar lapse as Gerry Goyer and Andy Heberton scored 20 seconds apart.

BACK AGAIN

Jankowski was back almost immediately with the 4-4 goal, but it was only to prolong the disappointing weekend, which brought three defeats on successive nights although the Leafs scored 10 goals.

Victory kept Buckaroos even with the Totems, who took Vancouver Canucks, 5-3, in Seattle, but it was costly one for the Portland club.

BROKEN COLLAR

Leach's collar-bone in the third period and will be out of action for about two months, the second major casualty of the season for the Buckaroos and their third player loss.

Already out for an estimated two months with torn ligaments is defenseman Jack Bionda. A training camp loss was forward Bob Beckett, discovered not to be recovered from an injury of last season.

VANCOUVER — B.C. Lions, who have been stuttering and stumbling a bit in late season play, won the one they needed on Sunday.

Led by end Mack Burton, a dour defensive team and quarterback Joe Kapp, the Lions clinched their second consecutive Western Football Conference championship by defeating Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 26-8.

HANDY REST

Victory left Lions one point ahead of Calgary and gave them a badly-needed 13-day layoff while the Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders play a two-game series to decide who is to challenge the Lions for the western spot in the Grey Cup final.

It was the seventh game in the last 28 days of the season for the Lions, and they were beginning to show the effects of the schedule.

They played Sunday without Neal Beaumont and Steve Shafer, one-half of what is the best defensive backfield in Canadian football, used line-backer Jesse Williams only for snapping the ball for whatever

MONTREAL — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who seem to have hit top form in time for Eastern Football Conference playdowns, closed out the scheduled season on Sunday by defeating Montreal Alouettes, 21-14.

It was the 10th win for the defending Grey Cup champions, who completed the season with one more point than they had last year although they got off to a slow start by losing their first two games.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney threw touchdown passes to Tommy Grant and Willie Bethes while Don Sutherland got two converts, a 44-yard field goal and two singles. A safety touch completed the Hamilton scoring.

Alouettes, playing without halfback George Dixon and end Jack Gotta, got touchdowns from Vernon Cole and Jerry Fields and two converts from Willie Lambert.

Howe's record: Montreal 1, New York 1, Toronto 1, Detroit 1, Chicago 1, Boston 1, New York 1, Toronto 1, Detroit 1, Chicago 1, Boston 1.

No player who has played professional hockey has scored more goals than Gordie Howe, who holds National Hockey League records for most goals, assists and points in scheduled play and most games played.

And what was the biggest one? It was the one he scored Sunday night as Detroit Red Wings whopped Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-2.

It was the 628th goal of his NHL career and Howe promptly termed it the "big one."

Howe's scoring shot Sunday night tied him with Maurice Richard, who scored 344 goals in league play and 82 in Stanley Cup playdowns. Howe has 591 league goals and 37 in the playdowns.

"Every time someone said I was the top scorer, someone else would say 'not including play-off goals,'" a beaming Howe said after the game. "Now I've got them all, or at least a part of one and all of the others."

Howe's goal came in the last minute of the first period and gave the busy Wings, who faced 31 shots at Johnny Bower, a 2-0 lead.

Victory enabled Detroit to gain a share of the lead with Montreal Canadiens, beaten 3-1, in New York and the Leafs.

RANGERS ABOUSED

Incensed by a trip which caused Rod Gilbert to be carried off the ice in the first period, Rangers stormed back to get a tying goal from ex-Canadian Phil Goyette and two scoring shots from Camille Henry, a French-Canadian who somehow got through Montreal's Quebec net.

And Bryan Watson took it for Ted Harris' trip of Gilbert, who returned to action after getting eight stitches in a head cut.

HARD PUNCHES

Vic Hadfield draped Watson over the boards in the second period pummelled him with several hard punches after ripping off his sweater.

At Boston, where fans were circulating through Boston Gardens with petitions calling on club-owner Weston Adams to dismiss general-manager Lynn Patrick and coach Milt Schmidt, the Bruins came to life for their first victory in 10 games.

Veteran John Bucyk and rookie Ron Schock combined for two first-period goals and it was 4-0 with less than seven minutes left before Chicago Black Hawks avoided a shutout in a game they eventually lost, 2-5.

Bathgate Mahovlich Advance

Toronto's Andy Bathgate and Frank Mahovlich went on scoring sprees during the weekend to move within striking range of leading Stan Mikita in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Bathgate earned five points on one goal and four assists to climb into third place in the NHL's Big Seven with 10 points, one less than Mahovlich, his linemate.

Mahovlich earned four points with two goals and two assists to push his total to 11, four fewer than Mikita.

BROWN: first in history

Brown Runs 10,000 Yards

NEW YORK (AP)—Fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland Browns Sunday became the first football player in history to rush for more than 10,000 yards from scrimmage.

Brown carried 23 times for 149 yards as his club romped over Pittsburgh Steelers to open up a two-game lead atop the Eastern Division standings in the National Football League.

Brown started the game needing only 24 yards to reach the 10,000-yard mark, wound up with a career total of 10,135 yards.

Meanwhile, St. Louis Cardinals lost a game to the Browns when they got Y. A. Title primed for action. The 35-year-old quarterback threw four touchdown passes as New York Giants finally got untracked for a 34-17 win.

In the tough Western Division, Baltimore Colts continued to look like the power with a 37-7 romp over San Francisco 49ers.

CLUB RECORD

It was the seventh successive win for the Colts, a club record, and was again compounded by an improved ground attack to complement the passing wizardry of John Unitas.

Rookie fullback Tony Lorick, who has averaged more than five yards for each of his 37 carries this season, was the game's leading ground-gainer and the rejuvenated Lenny Moore ran for his 12th and 13th touchdowns of the season.

TIE BROKEN

Detroit Lions stayed closest to the Colts, breaking a second-place tie by rolling over Los Angeles Rams, 37-17, behind the fine passing of Milt Plum.

Bart Starr threw four touchdown passes as Green Bay Packers tripped up Minnesota Vikings, 42-13, but the defending champion Chicago Bears went down to their sixth defeat in eight games. They were racked up by the improving Dallas Cowboys, 24-10.

Grass Hockey

Greyhounds Win Meet

Greyhounds won the first senior women's grass hockey tournament ever held on Vancouver Island over the weekend, defeating Mariners, 1-0, in the final.

Ten teams, including two from Duncan and one from Nanaimo took part in a tournament designed in part to act as a guide in the selection of an Island "Rep" team to play a series of games with Vancouver and to compete in a western Canada sectional tournament at Easter. University of Victoria Vikings got two chances at tournament victory when its "A" and "B" teams reached the semis. But Greyhounds won from "B" and Mariners eliminated "A".

Barr Bowling Head

Peter Barr was elected president of the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Club at its annual meeting last weekend.

Charlie Hodgson was elected vice-president, John Martin secretary-treasurer and George B. Dixon and Stan Baker honorary president and honorary vice-president, respectively.

Elected to the executive committee were: Bill Simpson, Harry Hilling, Colin Wood, Dixon, Fred Fairfull, Sam Barr and Ed Adashead. Trophies were presented to this year's winners—Charlie Robson, singles; Robson and Peter Voros, doubles; Jim Patterson, Bill Ferriday and Adam Buchanan, triples, and A. Lynas, Wednesday high score.

WHY IS IT THE WORLD'S FINEST BLADE?

Why does the Wilkinson Sword blade give you the most comfortable, the cleanest, and the smoothest shave you ever had and more shaves per blade?

There are many reasons. The main one is "hand-crafted quality". This stems from the great pride that all those at Wilkinson Sword take in their craftsmanship. Wilkinson Sword brings to the task of stainless blade manufacture over 100 years of experience in the delicate sword-maker's art... an art exemplified by the famous Eisenhower and Stalingrad Swords which Wilkinson Sword hand-crafted for these two historical presentations. It is this deep tradition of British craftsmanship that inspires everyone at Wilkinson Sword to bring the same devotion for perfection to the manufacture of stainless razor blades!

LED THE WAY—The Wilkinson Sword stainless blade story starts in 1956 when Wilkinson Sword decided to produce a razor blade. They determined that no other blade would ever equal it. For five years Wilkinson Sword craftsmen laboured at their project. Then in 1961 they introduced the present Wilkinson Sword stainless blade. By word-of-mouth its fame spread. The blade was in such demand that morekeepers made their meagre supply go as far as possible, sometimes selling a blade at a time to their customers. These were the original Wilkinson Sword stainless blade users—the "Men of the Sword". Now they number in the millions.

So the years of far from pleasant shaving are a thing of the past. Today, every major razor blade manufacturer has naturally endeavoured to follow the lead of Wilkinson Sword.

THE DIFFERENCE

There are many stainless blades on the market. But there is still one big difference between Wilkinson Sword and other blades... traditional craftsmanship. The consistently high quality is a result of the most stringent controls and precision manufacturing procedures in the world. For instance, every Wilkinson Sword blade is hardened by heating it to 1,970°F, then this heat is "frozen in" by suddenly chilling the blade to 94°F. below zero. Every blade is polished 16 times, then carefully honed under a constant spray of cold water (it takes up to 1,500 gallons an hour to grind and hone Wilkinson Sword blades). The blade is then meticulously stropped on circular leather wheels made from Swiss oxhide until the cutting edge is smoother, sharper, longer lasting... quite simply the world's finest blade.

SWISS OXHIDE

—The reason why Wilkinson Sword, and only Wilkinson Sword, use Swiss oxhide is an interesting story in itself. The Wilkinson Sword people found that due to altitude, climate and heredity, the Swiss ox provides the best leather in the world for stropping. This is a typical example of how Wilkinson Sword strive for perfection. It is this final stropping that adds incredible sharpness to the shaving edge of every Wilkinson Sword stainless blade.

AIR-LIFTED

—At the present time, the British Isles, part of Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the U.S.A. and Canada are the only areas of the world being supplied because world demand continues to outstrip production. Even now, to keep pace with fast growing Canadian sales, it is necessary to use K.L.M. Air Cargo to fly Wilkinson Sword blades from England to Canada, every week.

A PLEDGE

—These are just a few of the extraordinary lengths to which the British craftsmen at Wilkinson Sword go to produce and supply you with the world's finest blade. A blade so superb that it stands apart from all others. That's why Wilkinson Sword can make and keep this pledge: the tradition of craftsmanship and concern for perfection that produced the world's finest blade and changed the shaving habits of millions of men will always be maintained. That's why the Wilkinson Sword stainless blade gives you the most comfortable...the world's finest shaves. Try it. Join the "Men of the Sword".

VANCOUVER — Referee Frank Lee and a surrounding escort of players had to fight their way to the safety of dressing rooms after a Pacific Coast Soccer League game Sunday. Supporters of the Columbus entry, incensed when Lee tossed Gene Vanzoler of Columbus out of the game after 34 minutes of the second half for striking Ivo Katnich of Canadians, took after the official as the game ended. Lee and escorting players had to fend off the attacks of about 50 fans and Lee suffered a cut lip and a lump behind an ear. It was the second time fans invaded the field. They came out after the penalty call but intervention by officials of the Columbus club prevented the game from being called at that point.

Norm McLeod scored on the penalty kick to tie the match at 1-1 after Bob Smith had put Columbus ahead 16 minutes into the second half.

The game ended in the 1-1 stalemate but there was another flare-up near the end when Neil McEachnie of Canadians was banished for a scrap with Steve Djoric.

League-president Bill Findler announced after the match that police would be on hand in future for matches involving Columbus. Police were called when Sunday's trouble broke out but it took 15 minutes before they could get on the spot.

Two Missed Converts Put Mustangs Behind

Two missed converts represent the advantage enjoyed by Oak Bay Farmer Construction over James Bay Mustangs halfway through their two-game, total-points Island Juvenile Football League semi-final.

Farmers defeated Mustangs, 14-12, Sunday at Carnarvon Park. Second game of the series will be played at the same site this coming Sunday and the winner gets a chance to butt heads with Nanaimo Redmen of Campbell River Raiders in the league final.

Redmen all but assured themselves of a final spot by crunching Raiders, 23-0, in Nanaimo Sunday. Those clubs meet again on Sunday.

Farmers scored both their touchdowns in the first half, with Dave Young and Lloyd Murphy getting the major scores. Young and Doug Daniels provided converts.

Harvey Stephenson scored both James Bay Touchdowns but on both occasions James Bay missed the converts.

Dan Thachuk scored three touchdowns for Nanaimo.

Missing Hunter Walks Out Safe

AGASSIZ (CP)—Missing hunter H. J. Brice MacDougall of West Vancouver walked out of bush near here Monday after spending the night in the open during a snow storm. MacDougall, about 35, said he huddled under a pile of evergreen branches when he was trapped by darkness and snow during a hunting trip.

Big Victory For Trojans

Victoria Trojans ripped Esquimalt, 51-6, in Norm Fieldgate Bantam Football League action Sunday at Bullen Park with Mike Gibson scoring four touchdowns.

St. Louis College clipped Gordon Head, 23-19, and Glen Lake Roughriders turned back Oak Bay, 26-12.

Macdonnell Proves His Rating By Winning Badminton Crown

Vancouver's Wayne Macdonnell, Canada's top-ranked badminton player, got a struggle from Victoria's Bob Hunt but still managed to corner the men's singles title at the Victoria Racquets Club's invitational tournament Sunday.

Macdonnell won the first set, 15-13, then quickly ran out the second, 15-1, to win the title.

Mrs. Mimi Nilsson of Vancouver won the women's singles with an 11-3, 6-11, 11-7 victory over Victoria's Canadian junior champ, Allison Dayamith.

Mrs. Nilsson and Miss Dayamith won the women's doubles, 15-6, 15-9, over Joyce Jones of Seattle and Jean Massey of Cordova Bay.

Macdonnell and Bert Ferguson, also of Vancouver, took the men's doubles title with a 15-7, 15-12 decision over Bruce Rollick and Bud Dobson of Vancouver.

Rollick and Joyce Jones won the mixed doubles, 15-11, 13-12, over Ferguson and Mrs. Nilsson.

Available in REGULAR SIZE and KING SIZE

This smoking machine has no favourite brand. It smokes du MAURIER cigarettes from the production run, or any other cigarette. It also smokes experimental blends made to taste the quality of different tobaccos.

Because it has no favourites, our smoker is an impartial judge. Its verdict is factual. This, of course, is what our scientists want to know... the facts about the tobaccos we use as well as the paper and filter.

If you are a du MAURIER smoker, you are now enjoying the benefits of this quality control—if not, make a test of your own. Smoke du MAURIER—full King Size or regular size—for one week. # Air Transport Meeting Warned of Complacency

Gross revenues for Canadian airlines should reach a record $300,000,000 this year, retiring Air Transport Association of Canada president Don Watson predicted in his annual report to the association convention here Monday.

Mr. Watson, assistant general manager of Pacific Western Airlines, said the industry is having one of the best years on record.

Overseas charter business is brisk and could expand further if new special fare proposals win approval.

Mr. Watson told delegates the industry is enjoying greater success in making its voice heard on government decisions affecting operations.

But he also sounded a warning. He said that air transport is sensitive to economic trends and a normal year could deteriorate into one of losses unless skill and care in management were exercised.

He cautioned against complacency because some problems had been resolved and he pointed out that the overriding aim of the industry is a national air policy developed and implemented by the government.

SHORTAGE OF MEN

He hoped that such a policy could be in existence next year. He feared that by 1970 the shortage of flight crews and technicians would be critical.

He blamed this on lack of national policy.

A national air policy, setting out a secure future for the industry, would attract personnel needed for the future, Mr. Watson said.

EXTEND LOAN PLAN

He also urged the government to extend its student loan plan to commercial pilot candidates who intend to remain in Canada.

During the past year the association had sought to have a civil-military partnership in military traffic. But the industry had been unable to change the government belief that the military must move military traffic, although the ATAC was encouraged by the fact that the department of transport may call tenders for carrying of Arctic supplies, a function normally performed by the military.

The association had also pressed its view that air terminal expenses should be borne by all Canadians and not just air travellers.

Nuclear Power Only for Peace

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said in the Commons that India is firmly committed against using its Canadian-financed nuclear reactor to produce atomic bombs.

can to develop its own policies before coming to the government for "so-called leadership," Northern Affairs Minister Laing told the Air Transport Association of Canada convention in Victoria Monday.

In that event, the government would act only as a referee or arbiter, the minister told the 300 delegates and guests at the luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel.

He said Canada was "designed to be an air country" and that the future depends more on the air than we realize.

"If it were not for the air we would despair of making much of the north," he said.

Mr. Laing said that $40,000,000 is being spent annually in the north for care of the people there.

There are the resources there to pay this back," he said.

Preliminary surveys indicate there is enough oil in the High Arctic to make it another Arabia, said the minister.

Lead, zinc and gas fields are also among the north's resources, he said.

He called for a strong national government and said the danger to Canada lies in growth of regional power while many Canadians are losing the vision of making this country one of the great nations of the earth.

ONLY ELECTROHOME USES COMPUTERS TO PERFECT TV DESIGN

... and uses transistors for the ultimate in performance and reliability

Here is tangible proof indeed of Electrohome leadership — and of the ultimate in television viewing pleasure and dependability! Canada's most experienced TV engineering team verifies its design with thousands of computer calculations. Data on different combinations of transistors and coils is fed into the computer until perfection is assured. But this is just one example of Electrohome's years-ahead TV design!

Only Electrohome uses long-life transistors in the critical IF circuitry — which is prone to failure in many TV sets. Because transistors are virtually imperishable, this exclusive feature alone can save you big money over the life of your set. And because transistors do not lose their efficiency, your viewing pleasure will not be marred by gradual loss of picture contrast.

Every feature of the Centurion Chassis reflects Electrohome's leadership in TV design. More efficient cooling prolongs component life. Power Pacer tames power surge. Toroidal Yoke doubles the life of critical tubes. Stabilatron holds picture size. New Direct Vision tube adds to picture realism. Tilt-down chassis speeds servicing if it is ever needed. 12-month parts warranty is proof of dependability.

Electrohome offers a wide choice of superbly crafted Delcraft cabinets in traditional, colonial and contemporary fine furniture stylings. The full line of portables features the Centurion Chassis, too, for unequalled performance. See them soon at your Electrohome Dealers! ELECTROHOME, Kitchener, Ontario. # Witnesses Describe Crash Scene As High Court Trial Launched Trial of Leslie Frank Perry, Work Point Barracks, on a charge of causing death by negligence, opened in Assize Court Monday before Mr. Justice F. K. Collins.

Perry was charged following an accident May 17 in which Della Mae Hoegl, 19, of 3018 Donald, was fatally injured. She was a passenger in a car driven by Walter M. Allison, 631 Kenneth. Driver of the second car was identified as Perry.

The accident occurred about 1:20 a.m. at the intersection of Douglas and Kenneth Streets.

Seven witnesses testified Monday, the first day of the trial.

One of the witnesses, Donald Eckardt, who was the first person at the scene of the crash, testified the crash scene was so gruesome "it made me sick. I just couldn't stay there."

He said he was driving north on Douglas near Kenneth when he noticed sparks. "As I came closer I saw heavy smoke, dust and flames around a light blue Dodge. I stopped my car and ran over behind it. There was nobody in it at this time," he said.

"I went over to the other car and saw a girl lying halfway out of the car with her head and shoulders on the pavement. "She was . . . it was so awful it made me sick. I just couldn't stay there any longer," he told the court.

"I was standing about halfway between the two cars when I heard someone else groaning in the front seat of the car. He was crying 'Somebody help me out'."

SAW FLYING DEBRIS

At this point another car approached the scene and then police and the fire department were called. Driver of the car, Donald A. Courser, said as he was approaching the scene from a distance he saw what appeared to be debris flying through the air. The weather was clear and visibility quite good, he told the court.

Mr. Eckardt said after the car had left to call police he noticed a man staggering in the ditch near the scene.

'ANYBODY HURT?'

He testified when he went over to the man to cover him with a blanket the man said: "Did I hurt anybody? Is anybody seriously hurt?"

"He seemed in full control of his senses," said Mr. Eckardt.

Fire department ambulance attendants who were called to the scene testified the girl was unconscious and the man (Mr. Allison) was in a semi-conscious state. The girl died about three hours later in St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Allison suffered chest injuries and cuts.

Two Youths Charged In Halloween Brawl

A total of six charged were read in Saanich magistrate's court Monday against two youths arrested in a wild melee at a community Halloween bonfire.

David Verge, 18, of 630 Arundel, and Wayne Butterfield, 18, of 550 Tulip, were arrested with a juvenile after a fight broke out shortly after 10 p.m.

A Saanich police car window was smashed by a rock thrown during the fight in a rain-dampened field at Grange and Roy Streets. A second rock dented the side of the vehicle.

Verge pleaded not guilty to two charges of assaulting a policeman, one in an attempt to resist arrest; being a minor in possession of liquor and causing a disturbance by swearing.

He was released on $200 bail and remanded to Nov. 5.

Also remanded to Nov. 5, but on his own recognizance, was Butterfield, who will plead at his next appearance. He is charged with obstructing a policeman and causing a disturbance by swearing.

The bonfire was the most serious incident of rowdiness on the relatively quiet Halloween scene on the lower Island.

A Kirkland, Wash., driver pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of a Sunday night accident on Tillicum Road and was fined $100.

George F. Buckingham's car struck another vehicle which was stopped in the process of backing out of a driveway.

Damage totalled $350, said prosecutor Peter Birkett. He added that Buckingham stopped briefly then sped away with the other vehicle in pursuit.

The vehicles stopped at Burnside and Buckingham accompanied the other driver to a nearby filling station where police were to be called.

He left before police arrived and his car eluded the pursuing car, the prosecutor said.

At 9 p.m. the fleeing driver was arrested aboard a Vancouver-bound ferry. He admitted being on Tillicum Road a half-hour earlier but told police he remembered nothing of the accident.

He was refused time to pay the fine and a three-month driving ban was ordered after he told the court he held a British Columbia driver's licence.

Impaired driving on Halloween will cost sailor James F. McCreedy of HMCS Antigonia the lion's share of his pay for the next half year.

He pleaded guilty to the charge in city magistrate's court Monday.

McCreedy was arrested after an accident at Pandora and Vancouver Streets at about 8 p.m. Saturday.

He was fined $300 and ordered to pay $50 monthly instalments from his net pay of $66.

A sailor who was caught carrying a knife under his sleeve Oct. 25 was fined $75 in Esquimalt magistrate's court.

Norman J. Bentley, 19, of HMCS St. Croix told police he had "some trouble with five persons on the way out from town," and was looking for them. He also said he had intended to use the knife to bat a door against the men.

Also in Esquimalt magistrate's court, careless drivers John E. Charlebois, 713 Lampson, and Noel Peters, of 3628 Edinburgh, pleaded guilty and were fined by Magistrate D. G. Ashby.

Charlebois' car struck a parked vehicle on Bewdley Avenue early Oct. 24. He said he had swerved to avoid a car that ran into his path just before the $350 crash. He was fined $35.

Peters was fined $40 his vehicle went out of control for 175 feet and bounced off a sidewalk onto its side Oct. 11.

In Colwood magistrate's court R. J. McWhirter, 17, of HMCS Naden, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $300. He was also banned from driving for six months.

University Needs Support of All

By TED GASKELL

The University of Victoria can and will be a great one but it must have the full support of the community. Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor, president, told the University Extension Association, Monday.

The support required is not just financial, he said. It must take the form of full participation in emphasizing standards of excellence.

He urged his audience to set a good example by supporting the arts and said that the university could not flourish if cultural activities were to starve for lack of support.

FIRST ADDRESS

The speech was Dr. Taylor's first public address in Victoria since he became president of the university in July.

He said universities are the mark of civilization. The scale of values of a country, province or community, can be tested by the support of a university.

With the support this university is getting from government, municipalities and public, the board of governors is moving forward to ensure the essentials of a soundly planned university.

MAIN CONCERN

The university's main concern is to get talented people for the staff. University expansion is such that the competition is keen and Victoria must have a special appeal in order to get the best.

Such people want an intellectual environment, stimulating colleagues and eager students. They want an institution that recognizes the indispensable necessity of complete freedom of enquiry which means complete control of academic standards by the faculty.

Control of such matters cannot rest elsewhere, not even in the board of governors or the president, said Dr. Taylor.

ARTS CENTRE

He said that the residences must be expanded and a centre for the performing arts developed.

It is the function of the university, not to prepare a man or woman for the first job, but to graduate them with the ability to think, to be creative, critical and imaginative.

He called for great emphasis on modern languages, political and social institutions, international trade and relations because today young people must know more about the people of the world with whom they will be dealing.

For a Pacific province this means the Soviet, China, Japan, southeast Asia and South America.

Saanich Surplus May Provide New Sidewalks

Saanich will have a budgetary surplus of about $50,000 this year which may be put into a sidewalk construction program, particularly in areas used extensively by school children.

Council referred the estimated surplus to the public works committee which will attempt to meet with representatives of Saanich school board to discuss a possible sidewalk program.

Saanich police will crack down on trucks bypassing the Patricia Bay Highway weigh scales between Sayward and Cordova Bay Road.

Council received a letter from N. T. Porter, 5218 Sapphire Road, complaining that the heavily loaded trucks were speeding down Cordova Bay Road, presenting a hazard to car drivers and children.

Some of the councillors said the trucks use Cordova Bay

Road to bypass the scales, and agreed with a police report that more constant patrolling may curb the situation.

Saanich as participating in a joint project along with Oak Bay and Esquimalt to purchase a new council table for the City of Victoria.

The $200 table, with crests of the three municipalities embodied in it, will not be ready for the official opening of the new city hall.

Council agreed to pay its share of the joint municipal reception planned for the visiting Quebec mayors and the Canadian Pacific Railways' board of directors this month. Total tab will be $5,000 to $7,000 of which Saanich's share will be about $2,500.

Council will write the consulting firm which took part in the hiring of Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland asking for an explanation as to how examinations were carried out. It had earlier been suggested some candidates were allowed to take their exams home while Saanich firemen had to write the exams under supervision and within a certain time period.

Council will write to Liquor Control Board chairman Col. Donald McGugan, Attorney-General Bonner and Saanich MLA John Tisdale asking them to meet with the council regarding liquor store sites in Saanich.

Council has asked Saanich police for a report on Halloween with a view to imposing possible restrictions on the sale of fireworks.

Victoria council will be asked to lease to Saanich some land in the Elk-Beaver lakes area in order that a municipal golf course may be built.

"It probably wouldn't be a money-maker," Coun. Passmore said in introducing the motion. "But it's something that we need." He added that teenage leagues might be introduced.

Other councils will all have copies of this letter," he said.

More Time To Think

Esquimalt council wants more time to think before voting on View Royal's request for amalgamation with Esquimalt.

"It is a very complex matter, and we want to be quite sure before we take the people of Esquimalt to take on the commitment," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele, after the matter was discussed in a committee meeting.

He said the matter would probably come up again at the next meeting of council, tentatively set for Friday, Nov. 13.

Forestry Man To New Post

A member of the B.C. forest service, William Edwards, 46, of Trail, will give up his provincial job to take over in Victoria as provincial public relations officer, the federal forestry department.

This is a newly-created position.

Mr. Edwards' office will be located in the new forest research laboratory and regional headquarters building on Burnside Road.

Cmdr. Panabaker, now on the Pacific Coast flag officer's staff, will receive a four-foot pole, while Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will be presented with a 15-footer by Indian carver Johnny Jacobson.

One Cut In Wreck

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—A minor head cut was the only injury when a car containing three men, two from Victoria, was wrecked in a weekend accident on the Malahat.

Passenger Ronald Long of the York Hotel in Victoria received the cut when he was thrown from the vehicle, which left the road after a blowout. The others were driver Allan James Margetish of Cayuse Camp near Lake Cowichan and Gerald Zbovovsky of Quadra in Victoria.

Ceremonies Planned For Library

McPherson Library on the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus will be opened officially Nov. 14. Open house has been declared from 3 to 5 p.m. on the campus.

"The public is invited to the opening ceremonies and later to a tour of the library and other buildings on the campus — the Elliott, Clearhaze and Student Union buildings," Dr. Charles N. Forward said Monday.

Earlier in the same afternoon at the gymnasium the president, Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor, will be inaugurated. Attendance at this ceremony is by invitation only because of space limitations.

Two Gifts Due from Ahousaht

A Totem Pole for Pearkes

Totem poles for Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and a Victoria naval officer will be brought from the Island Indian village of Ahousaht next week by the frigate HMCS Beacon Hill.

They will be presented to Mr. Pearkes and Cmdr. J. L. Panabaker to mark the first official visit of a crown representative to the isolated village.

Cmdr. Panabaker was commanding officer of the destroyer escort HMCS Margaree which took the lieutenant-governor on a coastal tour in May.

It was the first time the village has been visited by a Queen's warship since 1864 when two vessels arrived to punish the Ahousahts for killing a trading schooner's crew.

Navy Craft

Tow Successful

Esquimalt naval authorities are probing the mechanical defects of the Vancouver-based navy harborcraft YFP 319, towed here Sunday night after breaking down in Active Pass earlier in the day during a trip to Esquimalt.

The ferry Queen of Saanich stood by until the coast guard cutter, Ready, arrived for the tow job. Lt. Cmdr. D. A. Fynn, Lt. F. Roots and P. O. Herbert Cumming, all of Vancouver, the YFP's crew, said it took on water after a malfunction in the pumping system.

'Kissing Time'

Veteran Saanich councillor Leslie Passmore, up for reelection Dec. 12, asked Monday night's council meeting the date of this year's municipal election because "I'll have to get started kissing babies again."

Around World in Bottles

Visit Victoria's newest liquor store and travel around the world in a jug.

The new store, at 1480 Government, quietly opened its doors at 10 a.m. Monday featuring a specialty counter of rare and exotic booze.

Russia is one of the few countries not represented on the shelves as a quick peek shows wine from Chile, rum from Puerto Rico, wine and beer from Denmark and Holland and beer, ale and stout from Japan, Holland, Ireland, England, Belgium and Italy among others.

There's liqueur from Greece, beer and sherry from New Zealand and wines from South Africa and Australia.

For a conversation piece there's Bol's Ballerina at $12 a bottle which is a clear liqueur with gold flecks and a ballerina inside the bottle who dances to the Blue Danube waltz played by a music box at the bottom to the bottle.

Then there's a jug of brandy for $26.25 which lies in a wooden and brass carriage, giving the appearance of a miniature cannon.

In addition there's Ye Olde Meade, a honey liqueur in an ancient stone crock.

Most expensive item is Grand Champion brandy from France at $32.65, which comes complete in a wicker basket.

There are also liqueurs from almost everywhere, including Mexican tequila, Irish mist and many B.C. wines.

Irish coffee, fruit brandies and whiskies and champagne.

The store, which will eventually replace the aging Johnson Street outlet, also stocks the usual Canadian and U.S. brands of everything possible, including Business was slow on opening day but perhaps it was because more people were interested in watching the ballerina dance than buying booze.

It will be open from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Train Crash Kills 39 In Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — Thirty-nine people were reported killed and more than 100 injured in East Germany last night when a freight train collided with the Berlin-Rostock "express" passenger train.

The East German news agency ADN said the express jumped the tracks. The freight apparently passed a stop signal before striking the other train.

Mine Can't Stay Open

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor Minister Peterson said Monday the provincial government cannot do much more to reopen Britannia copper mine.

He was replying to demands of miners, backed by Social Credit MLA Don Robinson of Lillooet, for government intervention to keep the mine open.

"We have done a great deal," said Mr. Peterson. "I don't see that there is much we can do now."

Johnson Win

SEATTLE (AP) — Malcolm Muggeridge, British satirist and former editor of Punch magazine, Monday predicted victory for President Johnson even though he personally found the president unpalatable.

Quick, Orderly Chaos

Police Move Over

Job Takes Only Three Hours

By A. H. MURPHY

The old police station on Fisgard Street was a hollow shell long before noon Monday and the Begg Building at Yates and Quadra was seething with activity.

With the help of a squad of expert moving men, a convoy of vans and frantic effort on the part of all hands the big shift was made in a matter of three hours.

Go Signal

The city police commission is meeting this week and it is expected that the "go" signal will be given and work started at once on renovation and reconstruction of the old building and construction of an adjacent new civic courthouse.

"We were in business in the new building at nine o'clock in the morning," said Chief of Police J. F. Gregory. "The move went as smoothly as we hoped it would and there was no dislocation of services or inconvenience to the public."

Shipshape

The charge office, which will be in the north end of the building, on Yates Street, was a scene of controlled chaos as uniformed officers rushed around setting up filing cabinets and getting everything shipshape.

But there was more control than chaos and vanload after vanload was whisked over to Yates Street and manhandled into position in the building with no panic.

Prisoners, Too

Six prisoners, "five male, one female" were involved in the move.

The provincial jail on Wilkinson Road will serve as a temporary city lockup starting this week and continuing for nine months or more.

In addition to the Wilkinson Road jail the RCMP cells at the provincial law courts will be used for day-to-day arrests.

Switch Thrown

A communications centre was established in the Begg Building before the move on Monday. When it was time to make the shift all that needed for a communication change-over was the throwing of a switch.

Jobless Ratepayers Rare in Esquimalt

Has Esquimalt municipality the smallest number of unemployed ratepayers in the Greater Victoria area?

Well, if not, it must be in the running for the title.

Municipal engineer John Graeme told council Monday night a nine-man crew had been hired by the municipality for the $87,000 winter works program.

Four of the crew had been on social assistance for three months or more and the other five were unemployed ratepayers.

"I don't want to bring people down on my head, but those were the only unemployed taxpayers we were able to find in Esquimalt," Mr. Graeme said.

'Not a Public Issue'

Wurtele Quits Jubilee Board In Protest Over Bed Furore

By BOB PETHICK

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said Monday night he has resigned an 18-year post as Esquimalt's representative on the Royal Jubilee Hospital board in protest over the furore about availability of beds.

After informing his council behind closed doors of his step, taken at last Thursday's board meeting, Reeve Wurtele told a Colonist reporter he felt the issue should never have been discussed in public, but between the hospital board and the medical staff.

In a written statement to hospital administrator George Masters, Reeve Wurtele said: "In 18 years service on the board, this is the first time we have been let down most unfairly by a board member. Only harm and a deterioration of goodwill on the part of the public can result from the tactics engaged in by our medical representative on the board."

NO SUPPORT

Reeve Wurtele was critical of Dr. D. M. Whitley for originally making the issue public, and called on the board to inform the medical staff that such matters should be discussed with the board.

He resigned after failing to get support for his resolution.

"Members of the hospital board should express their reaction in directional and organizational matters of the hospital at board meetings. Having failed to do so, or even if they have expressed their views, it is very wrong to publicly criticize those who serve with them on the board unless there is a laxity or wrongdoing on the part of the board."

EMPTY BEDS

"I am sure we are all disturbed by the delay in progress of the expansion plan of the hospital, and also disturbed by the fact there are too many empty beds with many people wishing to enter hospital. These are not the fault of the board or the present staff or, until proved otherwise, the government."

He said his council would act on his resignation, but added he did not know what steps it would take.

Oak Bay Sets Zoning Hearing

A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m., Monday, Nov. 16, in Oak Bay council chambers on a rezoning bylaw in connection with a 12-storey apartment to go up beside the White House Apartments, 1178 Beach.

Construction was approved some time ago, but application has been made by the builders for a change in set-back provisions.

Two contracts were awarded for widening of the Cadboro Bay Road, one to low bidder R. and W. Estates Ltd. for construction of curb and gutter at $15,721.60 and one to Victoria Paving Company Ltd. for asphalt paving. Their low bid was $30,514.

The tree removal contract was not awarded pending further discussion on what trees might be maintained.

Council decided model airplanes may not be flown in the parks after 8 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays not before 1 p.m. or after 5 p.m.

A renewed request in a letter from Major Cuthbert Holmes for a posted speed limit in addition to the caution sign in the vicinity of Newport Avenue and Beach Drive was turned down.

"We've signed" the municipality to the point where nobody pays any attention to them, except for the person who paints them," said Reeve Allan Cox.

Shack Row To Become Resort Site

By JACK FREY

A 50,000-yard fill project to create property for 53 waterfront lots which would be the nucleus of an 800-lot resort community at Otter Point was started last week.

Development is taking place at Gordon Beach on a 350-acre tract of land between Tugwell Creek and Otter Point, which is owned by architect and farmer H. O. Rugerson, who heads Gordon Beach Estates.

It is six miles west of Sooke at a spot where scores of sightseeing motorists stop every weekend to photograph purebred Highland cattle and sheep.

The area has been locally known for years as "Tobacco Road" because of rows of tiny, multi-colored, oddly-named cabins facing seaward across Juan de Fuca Strait.

The cabins, some partially built from driftwood, are used by their owners for weekend outings and as a fishing base.

Bulldozers and trucks are now filling in a marsh between the two rows of cabins to create the new building lots.

WILL BE BROKEN UP

Ultimately, the whole farm, purchased two years ago by Mr. Rugerson from Pete Filippa, is to be broken up into building lots. A promotional brochure may be printed and a marketing program started.

But the first step has been the upgrading of the little Tobacco Road cabins which are on land which in the past was leased to clients on an annual basis.

This is being accomplished by offering 25-year leases with an optional 25-year renewal, and in some cases by outright sales of the land. Cabin owners who now have long-term leases are improving their properties and the area has started to change from a shacktown to a beach resort.

CAMPSTE AREA

Filtered water from below the bed of nearby Tugwell Creek will be pumped next spring to a 30,000-gallon storage tank to supply tapped fresh water to the existing cabins and any new homes built on the subdivision. Half a mile up Tugwell Creek, Mr. Rugerson plans to clear a campsite area, probably late next year after a road is built into the area.

The developer is also planning to build a general store and filling station on West Coast Road as a service to residents of the area.

Hospital Topic Of Discussion

General situation at the Royal Jubilee Hospital will be discussed by the public affairs group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce when it meets at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the chamber board room.

At present there is controversy over the number of empty beds at the hospital.

The public affairs group is expected to present a resolution to the chamber directors after the discussion.

More Saanich Councillors?

New Reeve Plans to Get Jump on Census

By GARY OAKES

Hugh Curtis began his first meeting as Saanich reeve Monday night by asking council to consider the merits of adding two more councillors. (See page 19).

Mr. Curtis, chosen reeve in the Oct. 24 byelection, told council that as soon as the next census figures are released, "this council will automatically increase to nine members."

"It may be your wish to discuss the merits of taking the step at an earlier date," Mr. Curtis said, adding that with the area's growth the "individual work load on each council member is increasing."

Mr. Curtis, who was sworn in at 7:40 p.m. along with Coun. William Campbell, guided 21 agenda items through council in about an hour, and after other discussion accepted a motion to adjourn at 9:05 p.m.

In his opening remarks the new reeve said the nine weeks remaining in 1964 will prove to be one of the most active periods for all members of council in preparation for 1965.

Mr. Curtis said he hopes to see a comprehensive capital projects budget taken before the electorate next year, and in this regard council will meet informally with senior municipal staff to discuss such a budget.

Another highlight of his opening remarks was the appointment of a standing fire committee which he promised during the election campaign.

CONTROVERSY

"I hope the fire committee will look to the future of the fire department, not worry about the past or past appointments," Mr. Curtis said in an obvious reference to the long-running controversy over the appointment of Saanich Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland.

The new reeve welcomed Coun. Campbell to the council and praised Coun. Casey for serving as acting reeve since the resignation of Stanley Murphy.

ACTING REEVE

Mr. Casey was later reappointed acting reeve.

Mr. Curtis said he didn't expect that "we shall always agree-in fact this is certainly not desirable on a municipal council. It is my hope, however, that we can make real progress in the weeks and months ahead."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Yost, 979 Easter Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Marilyn Mae, to Mr. Jerrold James Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moss, 1414 Gladstone Avenue. The wedding will take place Saturday, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, with Rev. J. L. McLean officiating.—(Chapman Photography)

Our Man In The Kitchen

—HYMAN GOLDBERG—

Today is Will Rogers Day in Oklahoma, to honor the beloved cowboy-philosopher who was born in Oologah, in the Indian Territory, which is now part of that state. Will, who had been a working cowboy, became first a vaudeville comedian, then star of the Ziegfeld Follies, in the movies, and wrote a widely syndicated newspaper column and books and appeared on radio in the 30s and 40s. He was a very funny man, and even the people who were the butt of his sharp humor loved him and thought he was very funny.

"The man with the best job in the country," he once said, "is the vice-president. All he has to do is get up every morning and say, 'How's the president?' Which was true in those days, though the job now, of course, carries really great responsibilities. Another time he said: 'I could have gone to West Point, but I was too proud to speak to a congressman.' We know a congressman who loves: CHICKEN POT PIE.

One chicken, 3 1/2 to 4 pounds; water to cover; 1 onion; 1 rib celery, sliced, leaves and all; 6 peppercorns; 1 bay leaf; 1 tablespoon fresh or 1 teaspoon dried parsley; 1 teaspoon salt. The chicken can be whole, or cut up. In either case, put the chicken into a pot, cover it with water and bring it to a boil. Add all the other ingredients and simmer it, covered, until the chicken is tender, from 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Let it cool in the broth. Now you need:

Four tablespoons each butter and flour; 2 cups chicken stock (which you just made); 1/2 cup heavy cream; 1 package frozen peas, cooked; salt and pepper and paprika to taste; 1/4 cup dry white wine; pastry for crust pie.

When the chicken has cooled, remove and discard the skin, cut meat from the bones in big chunks. Melt the butter, blend in the flour, skim fat off the chicken stock and add 2 cups of the stock, stirring until it is slightly thickened. Add the cream, the cooked peas, and season to taste. Stir in the wine and remove from the heat and add the pieces of chicken, and stir it all around. Pour it all into a deep pie pan—maybe a 9-inch one—and when it is all quite cool, cover it with the pastry. Bake the pie in several places with a knife, so the steam can escape. In your oven preheated to 400 degrees bake it until the pastry is well browned, about 30 to 35 minutes.

Pink and white chrysanthemums decorated St. Aidan's church for the marriage of Priscilla Wendy John and Mr. Joseph Shiu. Rev. A. G. MacLeod and Rev. C. C. Shiu, father of the groom, officiated at the pretty autumn wedding. Organist was Mr. Michael Purves-Smith of New Westminster.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Quin, 2993 Cedar Hill Road. The groom's parents live in New Westminster.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Jimmy John, the bride wore a floor-length gown of shantung weave, featuring lily point sleeves and bateau neckline. Alencon lace appliques highlighted the fitted bodice and the skirt was accented with similar appliques and tiny bridal bows. Her short veil pouffed from a crown of pearls, flowers and only jewelry was culture pearl drop earrings, gift of the groom. Pink roses and stephanotis formed her cascade bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. H. Lowe; bridesmatron, Mrs. Sophie Wong, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Sandra Eng, the bride's niece, wore identical gowns of American Beauty red nylon chiffon and carried bouquets of white and pink carnations.

Mr. Samuel Shiu was best man for his brother and guests were ushered by two other brothers, Sol and Josh Shiu.

Mr. F. P. Lewis proposed the toast at a reception in Holyrood House. Pink roses and carnations decorated the bride's table and guest tables were centred with pink and white carnations.

For a honeymoon trip travelling down the west coast to San Francisco, the bride donned a winter white wool dress with matching double-breasted coat with turquoise hat and black accessories.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I disagree with you about school nurses. In our school the only way a kid can get sent home is if the coroner pronounces him officially dead.

Last year during a measles epidemic the school nurse wouldn't let anybody go home no matter how sick they were. When I nearly passed out the teacher sent me to the nurse. She told me to lie down on the cot for half an hour. When the nurse left the room, I got up and phoned my mother. Mom came to get me and I had a temperature of 104 degrees.

The way you aided with the school nurse makes me think you must have been a school nurse yourself before you were Ann Landers. True or false?—HOOSIER STATE.

Dear Hoosier: False. I was never a school nurse but I did try (unsuccessfully) to fool a few school nurses in my day.

The mail on this subject has been running 20 to 1 against me. I'm ready to admit there must be some pretty hard-boiled school nurses around—or that you kids have a mighty strong unkel.

Dear Ann Landers: Jack and I have been married 16 years. We have two children in school. My husband is the only son who has allowed his father to run his life. His older brothers moved out of town (lucky people) but we are stuck because Jack works for his father. His hope is that he will one day inherit the business but he has nothing in writing.

Jack's hours are killing. In fact he has NO hours. He is in the store morning, noon and night. He draws no salary. His father does out whatever he feels like giving—and it's never enough. We are forever stalling bill collectors and I am sick of it. The business does well and there is no reason for my father-in-law to be so tight.

I have begged my husband to stand up like a man and tell his father he wants a salary, part ownership and an annual vacation but he says "Not yet." What can I do?—SOUND AND FURY.

Fall Fair Nets $385

A town crier, complete with bell and cry of "Oh ai-Oh-ai!" marked the opening of the Sea Lake District Girl Guide Association fair.

Fall flowers decorated the Church-by-the-Lake, Elk Lake, and the stage was arranged to represent the interior of an old cottage. The upper hall was lined with stalls, adding the effect of a village green where children made their way to a fish pond and films.

An old-fashioned girl carrying a basket of lavender, the "halloo" girl and the fortune teller all added to the old-time, carnival-like atmosphere.

Mrs. Maurice Burbridge convened the affair which realized the sum of $385. Mrs. R. Jeffels and Mrs. G. Spooner were tea conveners.

Special guests were Mrs. Freeman King and Mrs. R. Howe, divisional commissioners; Mrs. W. Riehl, Saanich camp adviser, and Mrs. J. McFevitt, camp convenor.

Entertainment was by Jerry Gosley and Albert Demoni.

Executive Meet Here

The IOOE provincial president, Mrs. R. R. Shortreed left Sunday for Toronto, Ont., to attend the IOOE National Executive Committee meeting, Nov. 3, 4 and 5.

The next B.C. Provincial Executive Committee meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 19, at the Imperial Inn, Victoria, B.C.

I've been through so much with this ape I couldn't take another blow. All I need is for that letter to appear in the paper and I'd head for the bridge. The big jerk even signed his right name.

This is an urgent plea, Ann. I beg of you, please don't let me down.—ON MY KNEES.

Dear On: Get off your knees and stop worrying. I never use the real name of a troubled reader—and I never will.

I have your husband's letter before me and you have my word it will not appear in the paper.

Confidential to PLENTY SHOOK: Your letter indicates that you do not know what homosexuality is. Discuss this with your doctor and inform yourself instead of tossing around misinformation.

Quality Counts
Why is the bake table usually sold out long before closing time? Because buyers know that only choice offerings are displayed for sale. And donors know that only the best of ingredients, time and labor went into their making and/or baking. For there's a feeling of pride as we bake up specialties for whatever Bazaar we're involved in, and something quite rewarding about bringing forth creations of flavor and beauty to donate to the good of the cause.

Best Butter Cakes
Here's an idea for those big beautiful butter cakes that sell so well. If you're making up several "batches" of the same recipe, vary the results a bit by adding different flavorings to each batch of batter... you might try lemon or almond flavoring for white cake, coffee or rum flavoring in chocolate cake. Then carry the accent along by adding a little of the same flavoring to the butter frosting.

Extra Hands
How about having a Cookie Bee, just prior to the big bake sale? Either have your small group meet in one kitchen for a morning or afternoon of cookie baking—or plan to have everyone arrive, complete with cookie dough ready to be made into cookies. Many hands make it more fun, as well as more efficient.

A Note To Freezer Owners
Most butter cakes and cookies will freeze well. Which means you can make them up in advance, saving time and the storage problem in those busy last days before the sale.

Finishing Touches
Be sure to use a tasty butter icing on the cakes you plan to freeze. It stands up best to the rigors of the freezer... and it's easy to make too! Once the cake is iced, try putting it in the freezer for a short time to "firm up" the icing before wrapping. Then those pretty swirls won't come off on the wrapping paper.

Bride Wears Heirloom Diamonds and Pearls

Heirloom diamond and pearl earrings belonging to her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. V. Olson, fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Sharon Maureen Henderson when she became the bride of Mr. John David Wickstrom.

She wore a floor-length gown of white silk tulle fashioned with a bateau neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her full-length veil of Spanish lace extended en train from a mantilla of the same lace. Yellow roses and stephanotis formed her cascade bouquet.

Baskets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums decorated the double-ring ceremony at which Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated. Organist was Mrs. Margaret Wilmhurst. Soloist, Mrs. P. Cooley, sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. H. James Henderson, 1147 Princess Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wickstrom, 2818 Shakespeare Street. Mr. Henderson gave his daughter in marriage.

Street-length gowns of copper peau de soie were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. Lynn Smith, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Gary Allen and Mrs. Norman Banks. They complemented their ensembles with hand-made self-fabric rose headpieces, trimmed with toning veiling. They carried bouquets of bronze and gold chrysanthemums.

Mr. Harold Wickstrom was best man for his brother and guests, with white satin bows by two other brothers, Ronald and Michael Wickstrom.

Mr. Glen C. Twamley proposed the toast to the bride's happiness at a reception in Holyrood House. A three-tier wedding cake and vases of yellow roses centred the head table. Guest tables were decorated with arrangements of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Ruth Powell was organist.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to the mainland, the bride donned a taupe Italian knit suit and white gardenia corsage with matching coat, highlighted with a fox fur collar. A matching hat, cherry red accessories completed the ensemble. The couple will make their home at 1738 Newton Street.

2nd Debut for Mother

From Germany—The "Wiesbaden Discovery" that Makes Older Faces Look Younger

WIESBADEN, GERMANY—April 26—News has leaked out concerning a carefully guarded top secret discovery by a small but important group of skin physiologists. Scientific authority has it that a way is now known whereby facial skin is made to drink minute quantities of water, to quickly gain an appearance of fresh, smooth youthfulness it hasn't had in years. Facial lines, around the eyes, and the throat creases that so deeply mark the face of unwashed, hardy days are said to move or less "get lost" as this water beneath the skin's surface pushes them out of sight.

While this research was not conducted in the interest of beauty, it appears that new happiness for millions of unhappy women is a real, though honestly not intended, result. By special arrangement with the discoverers of this technique, a semi-lotion has been formulated which makes home application of the Wiesbaden discovery easy, pleasant and effective. The name of this preparation is 2ND DEBUT.

Since She May Now Lift Her Face Out of Lines and Wrinkles At Home

SEEING IS BELIEVING... This Lotion-Like Facial Works!

Have you ever wished you had the courage and money to have your face lifted? Not that 2nd Debut is the same thing. Its secret is the newly discovered carrier known as CEF 600 that actually takes pure water with it into and under the skin. Age lines and wrinkles are lifted upwards. They are so greatly reduced...often vanish completely. Nose and neck look younger again. Results are startling...and long lasting. 2nd Debut gives a lifting effect you can actually see...or return for refund.

Merit Medal Awarded Guidor

Mrs. Gilbert Kennedy was presented the Medal of Merit at the executive committee meeting of Victoria Area Girl Guides held at the home of Mrs. G. D. Kennedy, Weald Avenue. The award is given for long and meritorious service to the guide movement.

Mrs. Kennedy has recently been appointed provincial commissioner for program in British Columbia. She will, however, continue to serve the Victoria area in the capacity of training representative.

Presentations were also made to Mrs. Keith MacDougall and Mrs. D. J. Lawson, retiring camping and international representatives, for their outstanding service in these capacities. Mrs. Kemble Greenwood, assisted by Miss Margaret Tawney, will take over the international, and Miss Marion Woblet will handle camping for the area. Miss Woblet, who arrived from England about a year ago, is originally from Switzerland. She has done a great deal of camping both in England and in the Alps.

Mrs. W. S. Emmerton, area commissioner, welcomed the newcomers and at the same time thanked the retiring members.

Canada's Most Beautiful Bra Buy

It's no trick to make a cheap bra and sell it at a cheap price. It's something else again to make a quality bra and sell it at Gothic's low, low prices. Because Gothic is a quality bra—compare the fabric, the Cordex inserts, the fine quality workmanship and you can see the difference. But the real test of quality comes when a bra is worn. Fit is all-important—that's why Gothic bras come in sizes 28AAA to 50E—43 sizes in all! No wonder Canada's best selling bra is

Daring Bareness

Softness for Spring Fashions

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Seventh Avenue ready-to-wear casts its ballot for softness for spring.

Dress skirts for day and late day swirl with pleats or flares. The bias cut abounds. For late day, the feminine fabrics of chiffon, organza and lace take over. Other soft touches include large, floppy bows at necklines of blouses, sleeves cut full and gathered to cuffs at the wrists, drawstring neck and waistlines, and the return of smocking.

To go with this feminine look is a daring new bareness, undoubtedly a modified reflection of the topline swim suit that Rudi Gernreich, the California designer, produced last summer. These two trends emerge in the first showings for the nation's store buyers of spring fashions from New York manufacturers. The previews, by the dozens daily, will continue through mid-November, with a scattering of other pace-setting designer collections to come later.

FLOPPY BOWS
Donald Brooks, the designer of Townley, Inc., incorporated both softness and bareness in his dresses and costumes. He tied blouse necklines in big, floppy bows, used the drawstring gathering at neck and waist frequently and showed a couple of late daywalk pastels using smocking.

A brief jacket was smocked around the neckline, with the same shirred effect repeated on the neck of the slim dress beneath. On another, both neckline and waistline were smocked-trimmed. Even the hats shown with Brooks' designs were soft—loosely-tied silk scarves, made by the milliner Adolfo, of the same fabric as the dresses. Many were prints.

Baring much of the upper bodice were a group of dresses with "see through" lace or chiffon tents covering them, skintight sheaths beneath.

Designer Jo Copeland for Palazzo showed floor-length dinner dresses with front plunge to the waistline, and with the mannequins bra-less. Some of her late-day costumes were lined in nude to make the clothes look as if the tops were bare.

Island Playgroup Installs Officers

Mrs. G. W. Stamford was installed as president of Vancouver Island Co-operative Playgroup Association at the quarterly meeting in Stevenson Memorial Hall.

Other officers are Mrs. D. Lee, Royal Oak group, first vice-president; Mrs. C. Robinson, Elk Lake, second vice-president; Mrs. L. Hodding, Humpty Dumpty, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. Knowlson, Prospect Lake, recording secretary; Mrs. D. Curtis, Colquitz, treasurer; Mrs. M. Sutherland, Cedar Hill, publicity; Mrs. N. DeGroot, and Mrs. R. Pauwels, Metchoin, publications; Mrs. M. Rayfuse, Gonzales, membership; Mrs. M. Craven, Cordova Bay, social; Mrs. W. W. McGill, or, organizing director.

Guest speaker was Miss Jean Dey, professor of education at the University of Victoria. She pointed out that the preschool child can learn reading and arithmetic extremely early but the intense effort put into teaching children who are not ready is bound to eliminate much of the other good parts of the pre-school program.

PERSONAL MENTION

'Very Precious'

Keepsake Wallet Missing

A "very precious wallet" was lost in downtown Victoria Saturday.

The wallet would be of little value in itself to anyone but the owner, Mrs. Dennis Davey, who is now a guest at the Empress Hotel.

She had been keeping it as a memento of her late husband. It contained $80, but she says the money is of less consideration than the wallet itself which she treasures as a keepsake.

"If anybody is honest and wants to return it there is lots of identification in it," she says.

Holly Fete

The annual holly bazaar, will be held at the B.C. Protestant Orphanage on Saturday, Nov. 14, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. A. Barner will open the affair. General convener is Mrs. M. Dempster.

Stalls featured will include home cooking, delicatessen, Christmas novelties, fish pond, candy, tea, aprons, dolls and toys and contests.

begin at 2 p.m. it will be only by a matter of minutes.

Although the administration has settled down in the new quarters in Centennial Square and the city's business is functioning smoothly once again there is still the thumping of hammers to be heard and the whine of electric saws.

Meanwhile preparations are just about completed for the opening ceremony Wednesday.

PANDORA ENTRANCE

About 300 guests have been invited and city hall officials expect most of them to turn up.

The ceremony will be held at the front door to the new legislative wing of the hall, on Pandora Avenue.

Following a band concert prelude by the RCN band under the direction of Lieut. Tudor Jones there will be introductory remarks by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The mayor will be re-presented in his gold chain of office and his new mayoral robe of black silk trimmed with gold and scarlet. It will be the first time the mayor will be wearing the new addition to his ceremonial dress.

Greetings will be brought by the provincial minister of municipal affairs, Dan Campbell, by the new reeve of Saanich, Hugh Curtis, and by Reeves Allan L. Cox, of Oak Bay and A. C. Wurtele, of Esquimalt.

Representatives of the architectural firm which designed the building and the contracting company which built it will be introduced and the mayor will accept the building on behalf of the city.

OFFICIAL OPENING

Ald. A. W. Toone will receive the keys to the building and the official opening will be carried out by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes.

The official party will make a tour of the building after which the public will be invited.

What causes BACKACHE and how Dodd's Kidney Pills may help

One widespread recurring cause of discomfort is what is commonly called backache. One frequent cause of backache can be traced to sluggish kidney action. This condition often may result in irritation of the urinary system, followed by backache and tired feeling.

Based on a formula introduced over 70 years ago, Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate the kidneys to help overcome the irritated condition, and so bring relief from the backache and tired feeling. Dodd's Kidney Pills are available at any drug counter in the blue box with the red band. The important thing to look for is the name. You can depend on Dodd's.

Plea to Reopen Britannia Supported by Sacred MLA

BRITANNIA BEACH (CP)—Labor demonstrators backed by Social Credit MLA Don Robinson of Lillooet have called for provincial government intervention to reopen the Britannia copper mine.

Many of the 350 men out of work as result of the mine closure joined 100 carloads of sympathizers Sunday in a motorcade from Vancouver, 23 miles north to Britannia. They demanded a conference between the government and Anaconda Company (Canada) Ltd., owners of the mine.

Robinson drew applause by backing demonstrators' demands for government intervention to reopen the mine, one of the largest in the Commonwealth.

Demonstrators passed a motion for government help, and cards addressed to Premier Bennett were distributed at the rally.

President Ken Smith of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) called the closure an insult to all Canadians.

"The Americans won't keep it shut," he said. "They are trying to close it until we leave, then reopen with non-union workers."

Mr. Smith said the mine is capable of producing more than $8,000,000 worth of copper annually.

Anaconda, Canadian subsidiary of a U.S. company, said it closed the mine because strike costs were prohibitive.

Tradesmen Back on Jobs

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Tradesmen working at the Northwood pulp mill site returned to work Monday following a general walkout Friday.

The halt to work involved workers belonging to a union not affiliated with the Provincial Building Trades Council and others who belonged to no unions.

A council representative said the matter was settled with representatives of Poole, Dezell, Welsh and Ginter construction companies.

'First Landing' on Island

Almost 800 soldiers, sailors and airmen from all over western Canada are taking part in a week-long exercise at the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Four ships from Esquimalt, manned by about 500 naval personnel, carried more than 200 troops to the area Monday.

They will be joined by five RCAF aircraft from Rivers, Man., and Comox.

It is the first time personnel from the three services have combined in a joint landing operation designed to "improve inter-service understanding and prepare them for any role they may be assigned anywhere in the world."

With dense undergrowth, equal to jungle conditions, hazardous windfalls and heavy rainfall, officials predict the "attacking" forces will have more than enough problems.

Objectives include embarkation drills and shipboard routine, watermanship and landings from small craft, communications, support by naval gunfire, resupply, photo and visual reconnaissance and tactical air support.

1. STARLITE®. The dainty model with the light-up dial. Enhances any room in your house — and its compact size makes it especially suitable as a bedside phone.

2. PATIO PORTABLE. The "take-it-with-you" extension for outdoor use on the patio or sundeck. Plugs into any conveniently located jack.

3. AMPLIFYING HANDSET. With its adjustable volume control this model is a particular boon to the hard-of-hearing.

5. SPEAKERPHONE. The "hands-free" instrument — the ultimate in convenience! Its sensitive microphone picks up your voice and you listen to the other person over a compact loudspeaker, without handling the handset!

6. BELL CHIME UNIT. Replaces your ordinary phone bell with a melodious chiming signal. It can also be set to give an extra-loud ringing tone, audible at the far end of your garden.

Glamorous phones are no longer just for movie stars or millionaires. B.C. TEL can now provide you with the full luxury of modern "telephone living" at a cost you'll hardly notice.

The lady in our picture is using a table model — the basic extension phone which can save you thousands of steps a year, suitable for any room in the house. And consider, also, how much the six other low-cost installations shown above can add to your daily convenience and the beauty of your home.

All the phone models illustrated are available in a range of lovely decorator colors. And the monthly charges are much more modest than many people imagine. In most cases they work out at only a few pennies per day.

Other economical B.C. TEL services to increase the enjoyment of home living include additional lines and additional directory listings — both becoming more and more popular with big, busy families. Add new beauty and convenience to your home this week for only pennies per day. Call your B.C. TEL Business Office right away!

Concert by Choir Hits Happy Note

By BERT BINNY

There was nearly a capacity house at the Royal Theatre Sunday evening when the Boys' Town Choir was heard in recital. It gave a pleasant if sedate concert. The choir was enthusiastically received and gave three encores.

The program was sponsored by the Parish of St. Joseph, 745 Burnside, and directed by Very Rev. Magr. Francis P. Schmitt. Malcolm Breda was the accompanist. The 40-member choir ranged in age from 11 to 18.

The concert was divided into three parts, the first two made up of essentially religious items and the latter offered with lighter and folk material.

This last section also was very cosmopolitan, including numbers from Spain, Hungary, Holland, Australia (Waltzing Matilda) Ireland and the U.S.A.

The Boys' Town Choir has exceptional technical ability, is very responsive and performs admirably a capella. These assets are particularly evident in their religious items.

Their enunciation, however, did not appear to be sufficiently clear to enable them to be heard satisfactorily throughout the theatre.

This may not be altogether their fault. No amplification was used and there is little doubt that the ears of today's audiences have become quite lazy and positively refuse to adjust to differing dynamics.

They are accustomed to having all these adjustments made for them either by a sound technician or by twiddling knobs on radio or goggle-boxes.

Beyond the Fringe

Satirical Review Sharp, Funny, Hard to Hear

By BERT BINNY

At times biting-sharp, frequently very funny but, alas, too often very hard to hear, the satirical revue, Beyond the Fringe, played at the Royal Theatre last night.

Not much falls outside the scope of this show. All sorts of fun is poked at all sorts of things: politics, philosophy, the United States, the Second World War, Shakespeare, the Great Train Robbery and so on.

Some of this is definitely in the form of veiled humor; jokes with delayed action and these tended to go unappreciated.

The show is carried by a cast of four, the touring company and not the original London players. Appearing last night were Joel Fabiani, Patrick Horgan, Don Cullen and the company pianist Robert Cessna. Additionally, there was a gigantic truckload of scenery, properties and lighting and the manipulation of these was certainly one of the show's great assets.

Affairs got off to a good start with a four-way conversation which gradually centred on the topic of Canada and finished by arriving at the conclusion that British Columbia—and Victoria in particular—were the only places in the Dominion that could properly claim to be Canada.

Mr. Cessna's delightful spoof on the piano virtuoso was another highlight of the first half; innumerable variations on a few bars of Colonel Bogey with a bravura ending that occupied half the recital.

The reminiscences of the Second World War were featured by the gardener who met every crisis and every bit of bad news by suggesting the familiar English cup of tea.

Highlights of the second half were such as Patrick Horgan's solo ruminations on how he could have been a judge, the meeting of the four players in a restaurant after absences of three or four months and the finale on the subject of Shakespeare, described backstage as "our real splashy number."

Quite obviously Beyond the Fringe is not as virulent as The Establishment and not as risque as This Was the Week That Was. Nevertheless, it makes its points and it kept a full house laughing pretty well all through the show. Perhaps some of its pleasures were a bit too local for universal appreciation but these were few and far between.

Unfortunately there were no programs. These, apparently, were held up in the Customs, in proof of which theory a Customs official could be observed backstage just before curtain time. The upshot of this misfortune was that identification of the players was virtually impossible, which does detract from the total enjoyment of the show.

Beyond the Fringe was presented by Famous Artists, whose next offering will be the concert by Gracie Fields on Nov. 18.

Don Cossacks

Russian Singers Performing Tonight

The Don Cossack Choir and dancers visit Victoria this evening.

With thrilling songs and spectacular dances their program, sponsored by the Douglas Rotary Club and conducted by Nicholas Kostukoff, opens at 8:30 p.m. at Central Junior High School.

They have toured six continents, crossed the equator 19 times and provided concerts in 65 countries, travelling at various times in 107 different ocean liners.

MISSED ONCE
In 21 years they have missed only one engagement—when a locomotive on their train exploded in Kentucky. Against this they have fulfilled 3,699 engagements in the U.S.A. alone.

This evening they are billed to sing the familiar Meadowland as well as their always impressive Hospod! Pomil! in

Behind the Beatles

Second Best Enough For Dave Clark Five

TORONTO (UPI)—Britain's second-rated pop singing group came to Toronto Monday and got a second-best reception.

But they didn't mind. Dave Clark, head of the quintet bearing his name, said his group was just as happy when they weren't mobbed by teenagers, a customary experience for them and the top-rated Beatles.

ALWAYS WORRY
"Personally, I always worry," he said. "We're frightened that some of them might get hurt. Actually we'd like to see them and talk to them but the police won't let us."

The Dave Clark Five flew in quietly Monday morning and made their way sedately to Maple Leaf Gardens later in the day—in sharp contrast to Sunday when they were trapped for an hour by New York City teen-agers en route to an appearance on an Ed Sullivan show.

"That was just fantastic," said Clark.

IN SCHOOL
The lack of teen-agers was credited to the fact the mop-haired five arrived at 11 a.m. when their fans were tucked safely behind school desks.

The teen-agers got their innings later Monday when they packed the 14,000-plus Maple Leaf Gardens to scream encouragement at their idols.

With them on Monday night's show, minus the mop haircut, was Canada's own contribution to the pop singing—Bobby Curtola of Port Arthur, Ont.

The five Englishmen formed themselves into a quintet three years ago when they were playing football for Tottenham and wanted to raise enough money to play a Dutch team.

They started by playing at local dances and made their meteoric rise 18 months ago.

Clark would not say how large their income was but answered "Oh, easily," when asked if it was over the million-dollar-a-year mark.

Like the Beatles, they write their own songs, and like the Beatles they will star in a movie written for them. Filming on the movie, an adventure story, starts in England in January.

Sellers Back In Action

PARIS (AP)—British actor Peter Sellers Monday faced the movie cameras for the first time since a near-fatal heart attack last April in Hollywood.

Sellers came to the Boulogne-Billancourt Studios to start work in the film, What's New, Pussycat? in which he plays the role of a psychotic Viennese psychiatrist.

Sellers' wife, 21-year-old Scandinavian beauty, Britt Ekland, who is in Paris with her husband, remained in their hotel. She is expecting a child in January.

Sellers, 39, suffered his heart attack shortly after their marriage in Hollywood last spring.

We suggest a visit to The Gallery to see these treasures.

Which Queen?

Queen Anne Chair, sir. Note the imprint of her ladyship's bottom.

And what on earth is this?

A bone once picked by Sir John A. Macdonald. Think of the impression you'll make when you wave it at your friends. If I may be so forward sir, you simply must have it.

Unusual. But have you something a bit more...weeable? I'm not a conformist, but, I like the things I buy to be functional, as well as unique.

Take my Studebaker. So functional, it's indispensable. Modern, yet it'll never be out of date.

How, Sir?

Studebaker has a look that stays fresh for years. So, should I ever want to trade in my Studey, I'll always get a top trade-in allowance. I've been burned too many times with cars built to become easily obsolete, built to lose trade-in value after they've been around for a year or two. I save money while I'm enjoying my Studey, too. Economical to operate; my repair bills are almost nil.

Indeed—a very unique car. Is that it parked outside?

Yes, a '65 Cruiser. (It's my fifth Studebaker.) And it's been especially designed for Canadian conditions; tested on every road, in every type of weather condition Canadian drivers are ever likely to be up against.

Then, what they say is true—it really is Canada's Own Car.

Exactly. Who wants to be a conformist. Come on out and take a look. I wouldn't want you to just take my word for it. Or anyone else's.

Try Studebaker for yourself. (S)

few minutes can mean greater shopping satisfaction
for you

The way to get more satisfaction out of your shopping is to plan it on the basis of the information you get in your local daily newspaper. There is no easier way to save time, energy and money when you go to the stores.

Instead of wishing you knew where to find what you want to buy, you can settle in your own mind the details about prices, colors, quality, sizes and other essentials, just by reading the advertising in the local daily newspaper. And as you read, you can decide quickly and easily where your shopping trip will take you, even before taking an actual step away from your home.

You get your choice of the largest, most attractive selections when you read the advertising in the local daily newspaper. Retailers place in the local daily newspaper more of their advertising than they place in any other advertising medium. Many stores advertise only in the local daily newspaper.

So, for more satisfying, more enjoyable shopping, read the advertising in your local daily newspaper and plan your trips accordingly. Be sure to read the advertising in your local daily newspaper today and every day.

Shopping is more successful and satisfying when you start it in your local daily newspaper before you visit the stores.

Quads' Father Earning Only $28 a Month

JACKSON, Tenn. — The Lyons quadruplets — Tennessee's first on record — are hale and hearty, but their minister father is concerned about how his family of 10 will manage in a four-room house and on his $28 a month salary.

The quads — Caroline, Pollie, Anne, Willie Jr. and Lamar — were born early Sunday to Mrs. Willie Grant Lyons, 35.

"The mother and quadruplets are doing just fine," a hospital spokesman said today. "We've really had some excitement."

"I'm rejoicing; you can't do anything but rejoice," said the father. "But I haven't got any money and our four-room home isn't paid for. And now we've got eight children, it isn't big enough."

Lyons, 45, a Negro, said he receives $28 a month for preaching twice monthly at Mt. Zion Baptist Church. He said he also earns $4 a day as a laborer, when he can get work.

Moves were started immediately to assist the family financially.

ATLANTA — Rev. Martin Luther King has repudiated a write-in campaign for him in the United States presidential race. He said it is a Republican plot to cancel Negro votes, which he said would go heavily for the Democratic ticket.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — Former president Harry S. Truman has resumed work after being injured in a fall at home Oct. 13. An office spokesman said Mr. Truman, who is 80, felt "very good" and presumed he would be out early today to vote.

LOS ANGELES — Norman Thomas, six times the Socialist party candidate for president, says he's going part of the way with LBJ. "I have reservations about the candidacy of President Johnson, but I feel we've got to lick Barry Goldwater. Mr. Goldwater's policy was 'speak very loud and carry a big bomb.'"

MONTREAL — Creditiste leader René Caouette has denounced Quebec separatism as something which would "limit the scope of French-Canadians." "As for myself, I want to feel at home from coast to coast as a French-Canadian," he said.

MADRID — High-ranking Argentine supporters of Juan

Principal Runs For Council

Saseenos Elementary School principal Alan J. H. Newberry, 27, will run for councillor in Dec. 12 Saanich election. Victoria-born educator says "the time has come to apply the axe to the old guard," adding that Saanich needs "imaginative and vigorous policies to meet the challenge of the future" and "councillors who are decisive and energetic." Father of two wants a "crash program" on school sidewalk construction.

Peron have met the former dictator here to lay plans for his return. Peron has promised his followers on a number of occasions that he would return to Argentina in 1964. This promise was repeated in a taped address to a large Peronist rally in Buenos Aires last month.

LONDON — Boston teenager Elizabeth Freeman, who ran away from home, spent $800 of her savings and traveled 3,000 miles to see the Beatles, met her idols at Astoria Palace here, Elizabeth, a 13-year-old said to have a genius I.Q. rating, met the Beatles in their dressing room and ate a hot dog while talking to them.

MOSCOW — The other woman in Boris Pasternak's life, Olga Ivinskaya, is reported to have been freed from a Siberian jail. Convicted in 1950 for alleged currency smuggling, and sentenced to eight years imprisonment, Mrs. Ivinskaya was said to have been the inspiration for the heroine, Larissa, in Dr. Zhivago.

WINNIPEG — An Anglican college has conferred an honorary degree on a Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Hugh P. Kierans, dean of studies at St. Mary's University in Halifax, was made a doctor of canon law at the 98th annual convocation of St. John's College. It is believed to be the first time a Roman Catholic priest has accepted an Anglican theological degree.

LONDON — Dr. Barbara Moore, the marathon walker who has hiked across the United States and Canada, took the train to London with a complaint for Prime Minister Harold Wilson. But she was told she couldn't see Mr. Wilson. The 60-year-old vegetarian, upset because a sewer line is to run through the back yard of her home said: "If this is supposed to be British Democracy then I don't like it."

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons he would be glad to consider the suggestion by Robert Frittle (NDP—Burnaby-Richmond) that a coast guard vessel be named to honor the late Henry J. Larsen, retired RCMP superintendent, who died in Vancouver last week.

Funeral Service Held

Famous Explorer Lived in Victoria

Funeral services were held in Vancouver Monday for Supt. Henry Larsen of the RCMP — the man who left Victoria harbor in June, 1940, in command of the St. Roch to make the first west-east voyage of the Northwest Passage.

Supt. Larsen died Thursday at his home in Vancouver, where he had moved in September of this year from Lunenburg, N.S.

Victoria was home for the famous northern explorer through the 40s and early 50s — at 1090 Victoria Avenue and, later, 2440 Central Avenue.

AWAY 27 MONTHS

When he left Victoria for his first Northwest Passage trip, he was away for 27 months. His east-west trip over the passage in 1944 took just 86 days.

On another St. Roch trip, in 1948, the ship was led in at Herschel Island, north of the mouth of the Mackenzie. It was December but Mr. Larsen made it home to Victoria for Christmas by dog-sled, plane and ship. He rejoined the St. Roch in March, 1949 to take advantage of spring thaw conditions.

When the explorer was appointed superintendent in com-place. The ship has been restored there as a museum piece. A Vancouver Island association maintained by the superintendent until his death was an honorary member of Mount Newton Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Saanich.

Surviving are his widow Mary, son Henry Gordon, Dorval, Que., daughter, Karen Doreen, London, Ont. and Beverly Alice, Vancouver.

The body of Supt. Larsen was cremated in Garden Chapel, Ocean View.

Tornadoes Hit Southern Italy

RAGUSA, Sicily (AP) — The toll from a weekend of tornadoes in southern Italy rose Monday to six dead, with 150 injured, hundreds homeless and damage that officials said might exceed $30,000,000.

One tornado hit southern Sicily Saturday. Another swept over the toe of Italy Sunday.

PAPERBACKS POPULAR — In the U.S. in the late 1960s, paperback books accounted for one-third of all books published.

Month Ahead of Papal Visit Some in India Say 'Go Home!'

By CONRAD FINK

BOMBAY (AP) — A month in advance of the arrival of Pope Paul VI, posters plastered on Bombay walls demand:

"Mr. Pope go back home."

Small but fanatic groups of religious extremists are opposing the visit of the Roman Catholic Pontiff and the 38th international eucharistic congress, which he will attend.

Officially India, with only 1,500,000 Catholics among its 800,000,000 people, welcomes the congress.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, a member of the Hindu majority, said Sunday he will attend.

"The essence of Hinduism lies in its respect for all religions," he said.

Swami R. Ananda, secretary of the All-India association of Hindu holy men, said the Pope "will be our most honored guest."

Ananda added, however:

"The things we do not like are have no place in heaven and the tendency to condemn non-Christians as heathens who selytize."

South Has Swung Toward Johnson

Latest Harris Survey Sees Landslide Trend

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Lyndon Johnson holds a landslide lead in the popular vote over Senator Barry Goldwater in a nationwide survey completed Saturday. On a secret ballot test, Johnson finishes ahead by 62 to 33 per cent, with five per cent undecided. This compares with a 60-34-6 division reported 10 days ago.

When the undecided vote is allocated, the standings of the Harris Survey as of Oct. 31 become: Johnson, 64 per cent; Goldwater, 36 per cent. Goldwater gets the break on the undecided vote because more of these voters have a Republican than a Democratic voting history.

To assess such a massive lead with pinpoint accuracy has no real political pertinence, in the opinion of this analyst. It involves as much coincidence as skill. What does matter is this: There is a trend toward a massive Johnson victory in the 60 to 70 per cent range, a landslide by any definition.

The most striking result of the final secret ballot is that President Johnson scores a dramatic six-percentage-point gain in the South, putting him ahead of Goldwater, 52 to 48. Our interviewing indicates a clear lessening of southern criticism of the president on his handling of racial matters and a clear gain on the issue of international responsibility.

The president now has a precedent-shattering 74 per cent lead in the East, and levels out at 62 per cent in the Midwest. In the West, Johnson has turned the tide from his recent low of 57 per cent and now stands at 61 per cent.

The key to the president's showing throughout the country continues to be voter confidence in his ability to handle foreign affairs, and voter uncertainty about how Goldwater would handle questions of war and peace.

This election campaign may well mark major changes on the political map of America. Key new voting patterns to watch for in today's balloting are these:

Suburbs—Johnson stands a better chance of carrying the normally Republican suburbs of northern big cities than any Democrat in modern times. What used to be the very heartland of Republican strength may be turning into a centre of independent voting habits.

South—Goldwater bids fair to be the first Republican in this century to carry small-town and rural counties in the South. He should do exceptionally well in south Georgia, north Florida, central Alabama, northwest Mississippi, northern Louisiana, eastern South Carolina, eastern North Carolina and southern Virginia—all havens of the traditional Democratic South.

Business—The difference at the polls between members of organized labor and their employers and business executives generally is likely to be less in this election than any other time in recent political history. Johnson may gain only slightly over John Kennedy's strong run with the labor group in 1960. But with professionals and executives, Johnson will register a sharp upward increase in the normal Democratic vote, perhaps a majority.

Minorities—This election will also mark a reshuffling of the voting pattern of key ethnic minority groups. For example, the largest nationality bloc, people of German descent, has been heavily Republican in modern times. In this election, Johnson has cut heavily into the German-American vote. On the other hand, he may not do as well among voters of Italian descent as did Kennedy, while he will probably roll up a bigger majority among Irish-American voters than his predecessor obtained in 1960.

One of the most sizable shifts, both in voting percentages and in turnout, will be among Negroes, both in the North and South. They are heading toward more unanimous support of Johnson than any single group has ever given any candidate for president in recent times.

It should also be noted that 1964 has produced a significant shift in campaign issues:

● This election could very well mark a major turning point in American elections for the presidency. Barring some inordinate domestic event, there is now every likelihood that in the future voters will base their decision dominantly on foreign policy and defence considerations.

● At the outset of this campaign, the two most important issues were foreign policy and civil rights. The race question has diminished in importance as election day has grown closer, with the white "backlash" in the North lessening in intensity. Meanwhile, events in the Kremlin and Red China have intensified voter anxieties over foreign affairs, especially among women.

● Senator Goldwater has scored some late points on the morality issue. But neither the Baker nor Jenkins cases have generated the same impact on voters as the civil rights question seemed to project in late summer. The senator has also struck a responsive chord with his criticisms of the welfare state.

Cubans Defect

44 Use Gander As Escape Hatch

OTTAWA (CP)—The largest mass defection of Cubans into Canada occurred Sunday at the Gander, Nfld., international airport, the immigration department said Monday.

A total of 44 Cubans defected from a Cubana airliner after it landed at Gander for refuelling and minor repairs on a flight to Prague from Havana.

This brings to well over 200 the number of Cubans who have used the Gander airport as an escape route to join Cuban exiles in the United States.

TEMPORARY ASYLUM
An immigration department official said the Cubans have been granted temporary asylum in Canada in order to permit them to make arrangements to enter the U.S. This is normal procedure with Cuban defectors.

The Cubans now are being processed for temporary admission to Canada. They will be moved to immigration department quarters in Halifax, from where they will later move to the U.S.

The 44 Cubans included an

The couple was identified as Miguel Julian Rosagel and his wife, Hergmina Martinez Rosagel. Mr. Rosagel left the plane carrying his two-year-old grandson Julian de la Rosa in his arms.

The child is the son of Jose Miguel Benito de la Rosa and his wife, Elizabeth, who defected Sept. 15 from a Czechoslovakian aircraft en route to Prague from Havana.

Mr. and Mrs. de la Rosa are in immigration quarters at Halifax where they also are making arrangements to enter the U.S.

Boat Safe

CAMPBELL RIVER (Special)—The 72-foot Vancouver fish-packer Ocean Tide was expected to refloat itself on the overnight high tide after running aground Monday night in Phillips Arm, 40 miles north of here. The four men on board were reported unhurt.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Five men, three of them from Vancouver Island, returned here Monday night after a weekend rescue that ended their three-day ordeal without shelter in northern B.C.

The five flew north last week to investigate a recent crash at Trapper Lake, 320 miles northwest of Prince Rupert, which killed four members of a prospecting team.

They had found the plane in 240 feet of water and were pulling it toward shore when they noticed their tent camp was afire. Nothing was saved.

RCMP rescue team members Sgt. N. J. Scobey, Capt. J. R. Lemieux and Cpl. B. J. Fitzgerald, all of Comox, and their companions huddled for three days in near-zero temperatures until an RCMP plane saw a "burned out" message stamped in the snow.

The five had food in a second tent but the radio was burned and their only shelter was shrouded brought along for the bodies of the victims of the earlier crash.

The other two men were transported by department investigators Cy Leyland of Vancouver and Thomas Young of Richmond.

RCMP Const. J. Buckley of Atlin, 110 miles away, became concerned Sunday when he heard nothing on the radio. He knew the plane which flew the five men in had flown out again, so he flew to the scene and saw the snow message.

He returned to Atlin for help and later flew the five to Whitehorse Sunday night. A CPA plane completed the quintet's journey last night.

Children's Treats Poisoned

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—Someone opened a front door to 12-year-old Beverly Louie and gave her four mothsballs as a Halloween treat.

Two hours later, Beverly dragged herself home vomiting and crying.

The girl, daughter of Mrs. Alex Louie of the Siamon Indian reserve, spit the mothsballs out almost as quickly as she popped them into her mouth. But the highly poisonous effects of naphthalene nevertheless lingered for more than 24 hours.

Dr. R. G. Goodall said Monday she apparently suffered no permanent ill-effects. He said naphthalene can be fatal. Police are investigating.

"I don't think Halloween will mean the same to her ever again," said Mrs. Louie. "She told me she never wants to go out for treats again."

Carrier Blast Kills One

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (UPI)—A 48-year-old drydock worker was killed and four others sent to hospital Monday night when an explosion and fire rocked the Royal Canadian Navy aircraft carrier HMCS Bonaventure berthed here.

Reginald Skelton of Saint John was working with four other men installing insulation in the refrigeration room of the giant vessel when the blast occurred.

Navy and drydock officials said damage was confined to the room and surrounding area in the forward section of the ship.

NO NAVY MEN

A spokesman for Saint John Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. said no navy personnel were involved in the mishap.

The exact cause of the blast is not known, and an inquiry will be set up today.

There were some 200 men working on the Bonaventure at the time. The four injured were taken to Saint John General Hospital, where three were treated and released after suffering smoke inhalation. The fourth was admitted to hospital, also believed to have suffered smoke inhalation, but his condition was listed as satisfactory.

CANADA'S LARGEST

Canada's largest naval vessel arrived here early in the summer for refit after a trip to Cyprus in which she carried Canadian troops and equipment for the United Nations peacekeeping operations there. She was scheduled to leave the drydock Nov. 12.

A spokesman for the shipbuilding firm said he expected the refitting to be completed on schedule despite the blast.

Action Needed

Policing Parley 'Limping'

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal-provincial conference on extending RCMP contracts may be cut short "unless there's some action by tomorrow night." Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia said Monday night. (See earlier story, Page 5).

He made the statement after a day-long session of federal authorities and two premiers and six attorneys-general. The meetings started Monday and were to end Wednesday.

'LIMPING'

He said the conference was "limping along." The federal government had proposed "altering the basic cost computation" for RCMP services and changing the present 40 per cent provincial share to 35 per cent. British Columbia had no objection to paying additional costs of higher police salaries, more men or working conditions. The formula change, however, without extending service appreciably was under protest.

Nothing Done for Six Hours After Reds Blasted Planes

SAIGON (UPI)—Government forces delayed six hours before trying to track down the Communist guerrillas who inflicted a disastrous mortar attack on the super-secret U.S. air base at Bien Hoa. It was disclosed Monday.

There was no explanation, but Vice Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky said local Vietnamese military commanders had ignored two-month-old security proposals which could have prevented the attack which killed four Americans, wounded 35 and destroyed or damaged 27 planes, 20 of them B57 jet bombers, for about half of the U.S. B57 force in Vietnam.

U.S. officials refused to estimate the damage in dollars.

The twin-jet B57s cost $1,250,000 apiece.

Search troops found 82 empty cartons which probably contained the mortar bombs. The mortar shells were American-made and probably left over from the French Indochina war.

A U.S. spokesman said as few as 18 Communists could have carried out the intense 20-minute bombardment.

Nearsighted Caribou

Fancy Turned to Cows

MARYSTOWN, Nfld. (CP)—Caribou are nearsighted, and in the fall when a young stag's fancy lightly turns to love this can lead to complications.

A taxi driver travelling on a highway not far from here recently met a stag who had a problem over which even the lovelorn columnist might hesitate.

The stag was herding four white-faced heifers along the road. The cows were from the Flying L ranch located near here and the Caribou was one of three transplanted earlier this year from the Newfoundland hinterland to Placentia Bay, on the Province's south coast.

The stag apparently wasn't worried about the difference in size. He weighed about 400 pounds while the cattle are about 1,200 pounds each.

He'll Get Over It

A. T. Bergerud, provincial wildlife biologist, said Caribou during the rutting season could easily become infuriated with cows.

"When this fellow found out his mistake he probably went on his way and the cows went back to the ranch," he said. "Could the Flying L expect little 'cowboys' in the spring? A biological impossibility," said Mr. Bergerud.

U.S. Candidates Home To Await Today's Vote

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Lyndon B. Johnson, tabbed in advance as a landslide winner in today's United States election, ended his long campaign Monday night in his native Texas.

Senator Barry Goldwater, the Republican challenger, rejecting reports of a heavy defeat, returned home to Arizona.

"A stillness is on the earth tonight," Johnson said at Austin, and he called in a final national television broadcast for U.S. voters—more than 70,000,000 strong—to "rise up by the millions and the tens of millions."

CAST OUT

"Let us cast out those views so dangerously removed from the real concerns and passions of this exciting time in which we live," said Johnson.

Only massive defeat could drive the Republican right from its place of power, he said.

Senator Goldwater, who like the president had touched 44 of the 50 states in a long and bitter campaign, told about 500 persons at Fredonia, Arizona, that the issue today is government control leading to slavery.

WARNING

"My whole campaign... has been directed to warning Americans of the dangers that lie in this philosophy," he said. He also made final TV broadcasts, some pre-recorded.

Johnson and his wife flew from Washington to their native Texas for last-ditch campaigning in Houston and Austin.

Goldwater had a ticker-tape parade and major rally in San Francisco.

INCOMPETENCE

He reiterated his view the Democrats are guilty of "dereliction of duty" in South Vietnam, where the Communists Sunday struck heavily to kill four Americans and destroy or damage 27 aircraft.

"Sheer incompetence," said Goldwater. Then he turned homeward via a good-luck call at Little Fredonia, Ariz., where his two successful Senate races have ended.

Hubert Humphrey, Democratic vice-presidential nominee with 41 states visited in his hard-knocking campaign, flew toward Minnesota after last calls at Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

WEATHER FACTOR

Humphrey's Republican adversary, Congressman William Miller, ended his campaign Saturday, rested in Washington and returned Monday to Lockport, N.Y., to vote and wait.

The weather forecast, a vital element in assuring a good electoral turnout, was promising for most of the 50 states.

The public opinion polls shaped up pretty well as they had when the campaign began officially two months ago.

They gave the Johnson-Humphrey ticket 64 per cent, the Goldwater-Miller 36 per cent and the popular vote, on an average.

By Parties

No Wide Swing Predicted In Either U.S. Chamber

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. voters elect a new Congress today with neither party predicting any really wide swing in the Democratic-Republican lineup in either chamber.

In addition to choosing a president, voters fill all 435 seats in the House of Representatives and 100 of the 100 in the Senate.

Mathematics heavily favor the Democrats to retain control of both chambers, which they held at the close of the last Congress, 254 to 176 in the House, 66-34 in the Senate. But these figures, especially for the House, do not reflect the tendency of many southern Democrats to vote with Republicans nor occasional other Democratic defections on specific issues.

CLOSELY DIVIDED

For practical purposes, the House was closely divided during the Kennedy and Johnson administration.

So, if Johnson is elected, a Democratic gain of even 15 or so House seats — the range many Democrats predict — might trigger a drive to push through early in the new Congress some of the Kennedy-Johnson measures that have been in trouble, such as health care for the aged.

DITCH PROGRAM

But a number of Republicans have been predicting their side will pick up a similar number of votes. In such a case, even if Democrats retain the White House, they would probably have to abandon or compromise much of their program.

MORE MODEST

Victory claims from both camps in the Senate race have been more modest. A few races spotlighted by personalities or especially dramatic circumstances have drawn most attention.

Republicans predicted victory in the Ohio race in which Representative Robert Taft Jr. has challenged 75-year-old Democratic Senator Stephen M. Young. Taft's father, the late senator, made the name revered in Ohio.

Both felt confident of victory in today's voting.

Most polls gave Mr. Kennedy a slight edge, but political observers felt the outcome of the dramatic race will depend on the margin with which President Lyndon Johnson carries pivotal New York State and its 43 electoral votes.

FUTURE AT STAKE

Also at stake is the prestige and possible future of Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who lost the Republican presidential nomination to Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Sen. Keating, who rebelled against the Republican national ticket in his fight for a second six-year term, wound up his campaign with nine appearances Monday in upstate New York before heading to his home in Rochester.

He will vote there this morning then return to New York City in mid-afternoon.

'First Without Recession'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Democratic U.S. vice-presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey said Monday the Kennedy-Johnson administration "will be the first peacetime administration in the history of the United States without a recession or a depression."

The Minnesota senator, winding up his California campaign prior to departing for Salt Lake City, Utah, late Monday, also said "all segments of the American public are better off than they were four years ago when we (the Democrats) came into power."

"We are now in the 45th month of uninterrupted prosperity — the longest period in our history unmarred by recession or depression," Humphrey told a group of business leaders at the University Club.

Immediate Therapy Helps Stroke Victim Recover

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I read your article in reference to the person who had a stroke on the right side. I had one on that side a year ago.

I have my own first-floor apartment. My son took me over to his home for three weeks. I stayed in bed there for several days, but always had someone lead me into the bathroom.

My doctor told me how to exercise my arm and leg so they would not become stiff. After three weeks I entered the Rehabilitation Centre for 28 days.

They gave me physical and occupational therapy. The first thing was to strap a pencil on my right hand and I had to practice writing. Then I had to punch things out of metal with my right hand. It was not easy but I loosened up my hand.

In physical therapy they exercised my arm and leg. They put sand bags on a cane and I had to raise it in front of me as far as I could. They had an exerciser like a bicycle to strengthen my leg, and steps to teach you to walk up and down curbs.

I have asthma and diabetes, one bad eye and a cataract removed from the other.

When I came home to my apartment I cooked my own meals, I have a cleaning woman once a month, do my personal wash and iron my dresses.

I never use a cane inside. I have not been given permission to go out alone; someone goes with me. But I thought you might be interested in knowing about the rehabilitation centre.

I never heard of it until I was taken ill. It takes time to do things for yourself, but that is what helps you. It was seven months before I could head my knee. I hope that other stroke patients get along as well.

This has all been written with my right hand.—K.B.S.

One letter like this will probably tell you more than several articles on what is being done these days, in helping people recover from strokes.

Most of us have acquired, over the years, a deathly fear of having a stroke and becoming "helpless." Yet if wise treatment begins at once, and patients realize how much can be done by physical and occupational therapy, amazing recovery is possible.

It is only in fairly recent years that rehabilitation centres have come into widespread use.

K.B.S. never heard about the centre where she went, until after she had had her stroke. But see what she says about it!

They make you work. They make you try. That's part of the "secret" of their success.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is monosodium glutamate salt? I am not supposed to use salt in my food.—P.M.P.

As far as you are concerned it might as well be, because it's the sodium in salt which needs to be avoided in your diet. And monosodium glutamate, as the name implies, contains sodium.

NOTE TO MRS. R.R.: No, saffron tea won't correct anaemia.

Fair Weather Forecast For Voters

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The weather bureau forecast generally fair skies and mild temperatures for election day.

Scattered showers were expected in the northeast, the upper Mississippi Valley, parts of the northern Rockies and the Pacific Northwest coast.

A spokesman said that "Generally, it looks like a lot nicer day than we had for the 1960 elections."

Teachers, Board Seek Help

DUNCAN—The school board and teachers in the Cowichan district have requested a conciliation officer in their salary dispute. It was learned Monday.

The teachers, who want a five per cent increase, have rejected an offer of zero to 6.1 per cent. It would give nothing to 11 per cent of the teachers and two per cent or less to more than half of the staff.

NORTH COWICHAN—Pacific Logging Co. has asked the North Cowichan zoning appeal board to postpone its hearing on the company's controversial bid for a booming operation at Crofton. The hearing was to be held Thursday and the company did not specify a later date in its request.

LADYSMITH—Two adults and two children were taken to hospitals here and in Chemainus after two weekend accidents on the old Island Highway. Mrs. Rose Francis of Salsair and two children were discharged from Ladysmith hospital Sunday after treatment for minor injuries received the night before when her car went out of control on a slippery road and hit a parked car. Passenger Tom Tames of Chemainus suffered minor injuries when another car hit a power pole.

NANAIMO—Sunshine totalled 142.7 hours in October, according to reports released Monday, well above the 100-hour total in the same month last year. The rainfall total of 1.51 inches was far below the 8.06 inches in October a year ago.

ALBERNI—October rain totalled 4.81 inches at the McCoy Lake weather station, almost one inch Oct. 31, says observer Colin Wilson. This is well below the average of 7.73 inches and the 19.98 inches in October last year. Temperatures ranged from 27 degrees Oct. 27 to 73 Oct. 5 and 7, with a mean of 49.81.

CHEMAINUS—Anita Hemmingsen, daughter of one of the owners, recently christened the My Nanaimo Yarder, latest addition to the Chemainus Towing Co. fleet. The 41-foot, all-steel tug has a 14-foot beam and will carry a crew of four. Owners are George Hemmingsen and Ham Baillie.

PARKVILLE—The Canadian Red Cross Society's B.C. division will open its annual regional meeting in the Island Hall hotel Wednesday at 10 a.m. with annual reports. Speakers will be B.C. president Frederick Dietrich, B.C. commissioner Beverly Howard and retiring commissioner S. J. Hever.

TOFINO—Funeral services have been held in the United Church here for Mrs. Florence Nancy Clayton, 74, of Ahousaht, one of the best-known residents of the Island's west coast. Her husband Bert is general store proprietor and postmaster in Ahousaht and has been long active in Island mining circles.

CHEMAINUS—The cottage donated by Chemainus Rotary Club to Fuller's Lake Park for a caretaker, is nearing completion. The club has learned a list of requirements and duties expected of a caretaker will be submitted to the next North Cowichan council meeting.

Forestry Man To New Post

A member of the B.C. forest service, William Edwards, 46, of Trail, will give up his provincial job to take over in Victoria as provincial public relations officer, the federal forestry department.

This is a newly-created position.

Mr. Edwards' office will be located in the new forest research laboratory and regional headquarters building on Burnside Road.

Duncan Spurns Cowichan Vote

DUNCAN—City council Monday night rejected a proposal by North Cowichan on the way to finance a one-mile, $12,000 water line extension to the Somenos subdivision.

The municipality also suggested the city conduct a vote by North Cowichan owner-electors on the terms, and the city collect all fees and charges.

Ald. Hamish Mutter said it was "unfortunate for the people who need the water that petty technicalities are holding up the son said all Duncan wants is "some security for the money we will spend."

Council particularly opposed holding a vote for North Cowichan people but said it is willing to discuss the matter with North Cowichan officials.

Safety Flags Rise At Three Schools

NANAIMO—A safety flag devised by the National Safety Council to make youngsters in Grades 1, 2 and 3 safety conscious has been raised at three more Nanaimo elementary schools.

The program began last spring under the guidance of traffic safety expert Cpl. John Urquhart of Nanaimo RCMP detachment, school board officials and the local safety council.

Elmer the Elephant flags are raised at the schools for the benefit of youngsters in the first three grades. If an accident occurs involving a child from that school, the flag is taken down.

Monday, Elmer the Elephant was hoisted up the flagpole at Rock City Road, Departure Bay and Seaview schools.

Kim Covey, six-year-old Grade 2 student at Rock City Road elementary, raised the first Elmer flag with the assistance of Corporal Urquhart, trustee Dr. Roy MacMillan, Rock City Road, Grades 5 and 6, teacher Allan Cormons and Ray Kulai, principal of North district elementary schools.

Shawnigan Pupils Plan Operetta

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Students of the Shawnigan Lake Boys' School and Strathcona Lodge school for girls will give a public performance Friday of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta The Gondoliers.

The performance will be in the Shawnigan Lake school at 7:30 p.m. There will be no admission charge but a collection will be taken, with proceeds going to the world refugees organization. The operetta will also be performed this afternoon at the Queen Alexandra Solarium and a showing for parents of the pupils will be held Saturday.

Director is J. S. Grey, musical director I. Galliford and some of the leading performers P. Joseph, Sue Cameron, Joan Henderson, Tom Andrews and Dave Gaviner.

Two Gifts Due from Ahousaht

A Totem Pole for Pearkes

Totem poles for Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and a Victoria naval officer will be brought from the Island Indian village of Ahousaht next week by the frigate HMCS Beacon Hill.

They will be presented to Mr. Pearkes and Cmdr. J. L. Panabaker by the first official visit of a crown representative to the isolated village.

Cmdr. Panabaker was commanding officer of the destroyer escort HMCS Margaree which took the lieutenant-governor on a coastal tour in May.

It was the first time the village has been visited by a Queen's warship since 1864 when two vessels arrived to punish the Ahousahts for killing a trading schooner's crew.

One Cut In Wreck

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—A minor head cut was the only injury when a car containing three men, two from Victoria, was wrecked in a weekend accident on the Malahat.

Passenger Ronald Long of the York Hotel in Victoria received the cut when he was thrown from the vehicle, which left the road after a blowout. The others were driver Allan James Margaretish of Cayuse Camp near Lake Cowichan and Gerald Zboyovsky of Quadra in Victoria.

Esquimalt naval authorities are probing the mechanical defects of the Vancouver-based navy harborcraft YFP 319, towed here Sunday night after breaking down in Active Pass earlier in the day during a trip to Esquimalt.

The ferry Queen of Saanich stood by until the coast guard cutter Ready arrived for the tow job. Lt. Cmdr. D. A. Fynn, Lt. F. Roots and PO Herbert Cumming, all of Vancouver, the YFP's crew, said it took on water after a malfunction in the pumping system.

Donated Property in 1912

After 52 Years the Tax Bill Stops Coming

LADYSMITH — Clifford Williams, whose father gave four-fifths of an acre to the Ladysmith school board as a school site, has finally stopped paying taxes on the property—32 years later.

Mr. Williams told the story Monday, a little reluctantly, saying "it had to be done sooner or later and I took it on myself to have it done now."

He pointed out that not more than $100 in taxes was paid by his father and himself in the 52 years—"not enough to squawk about and I'm satisfied to have the thing cleared up."

Mr. Williams' father was Parker Williams, Socialist MLA for the area from 1904 to 1916, Opposition leader at one time and later a longtime compensation board official.

The school involved is the three-room North Oyster Elementary School near here.

The story began in 1896, when the Ladysmith school board built a one-room school on a quarter-acre next to the site of the present school. By 1912, the district's population had grown enough to warrant construction of two more classrooms.

The school board, meeting at North Oyster Oct. 28, 1912, passed a motion which chose as the new school site land "promised by Mr. Parker Williams adjoining the present site . . . and granted by him for a school site."

The motion, reported that way in the board minutes, passed by a 1-3 vote.

Construction began but the board neglected to obtain title to the four-fifths of an acre. The school was completed in 1914.

Mr. Williams explained the matter of title and taxes was "let go" and there are reports his father and some school trustees might not have been too friendly, preventing a solution.

Parker Williams died in 1958, and the title transfer finally was completed a year ago, following settlement of the estate. But the issue of tax payments was not cleared up, says Clifford Williams, until he acted "very recently."

In front of 1912 school, Clifford Williams reads 1912 minutes

Campbell River

Municipality In the Offing

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Monday the people of Campbell River and the surrounding area will not be voting in a few weeks on amalgamation but on the creation of a new district municipality.

He was commenting on the terms of agreement unanimously endorsed by a local study group Oct. 29 which call for a vote Nov. 28 or the earliest convenient date thereafter.

Mr. Campbell said he felt the terms agreed upon constitute a good basis for agreement.

FUTURE GROWTH
"The people of the village and improvement districts will not be voting on whether or not to join one another," the minister said. "The vote will be to create something entirely new as the foundation for future growth."

Mr. Campbell will attend a public meeting in Campbell River Nov. 12 to discuss the forthcoming vote.

These are the terms of agreement by the study group:

● The new name will be District of Campbell River.

● Boundaries are to be Middle Point to the north and Oyster River to the south, taking in three improvement districts and the village.

● Improvement districts and village to be declared service areas for recovery of debenture debt for a period of not less than three years, at which time the merger may be reviewed.

● Each area to be responsible for present services such as street lighting and water services. Sewers, policing, health and welfare, fire protection to be charged against general revenues of the new municipality.

● Interim council to have nine or 11 members serving terms of either a few months, a year or two years (final decision on these points deferred) and to be elected from interim council. Makeup of interim council: Village, four members; Willow Point, three; Quinsam, one; North Campbell River, one.

● Returning officer to be appointed by the minister.

● Voting date to be Nov. 28 or the earliest date thereafter at the convenience of the minister.

Recommendations were unanimously endorsed by all members of the study group present, but two from North Campbell River were absent.

'Thinking of Kids' Driver Tells Court

DUNCAN — "I was just thinking of my kids," Francis Joe of Koksilah said in magistrate's court Monday in replying to his third impaired driving charge in three years.

"You did not think very much of your kids when you got drunk," Magistrate D. K. McAdam shot back.

He sentenced Joe to three months in prison and prohibited him from driving for one year. He also handed out a concurrent $50 or 30 days after Joe pleaded guilty to driving while his right to obtain a licence was suspended.

Court was told police found Joe behind the wheel of a car in a ditch near Duncan. The driver apparently indicated he was "thinking of his kids" by staying put.

PUBLIC DRINKING
Jack Gunderson of Lake Cowichan pleaded guilty to two charges of public liquor consumption and was fined $100 on each.

INDECENT EXPOSURE
Donald G. Reid of Victoria was given a six-month suspended sentence and placed on a $100 bond after pleading guilty to indecent exposure.

Calls for Royal Commission

Nicoll Claims Hostility In Court of Revision

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO—A call for a royal commission, a demand for reassessments and a batch of arguments kept things hopping in Nanaimo courthouse Monday as R. E. (Doc) Nicoll began his long-sought assessment appeal.

During the day Mr. Nicoll called for a royal commission to investigate assessment legislation, the physical process of assessment and the machinery of appeal, with particular attention to the farm classification problem.

He also urged a complete re-evaluation and assessment of all the small Gulf Islands and a full reassessment of Gabriola Island, with emphasis on waterfrontage.

Mr. Nicoll is appealing assessment of his waterfront property on Gabriola and Breakwater Islands.

The hearing was ordered by the B.C. Supreme Court after the Nanaimo court of revision—made up of chairman John Barsby, William Cochrane and Russell Inkster—rejected the appeal and then refused a demand for a new hearing.

Mr. Nicoll is seeking a 50 per cent reduction in the assessments while provincial assessor John Bosdet has recommended no change in the assessment.

Discrimination Charged

Before beginning his appeal, Mr. Nicoll levelled charges of "discrimination" at provincial taxation.

He said there is a "complete lack of fairness," and "no consideration has been given to establish equity" in assessments on small islands and assessments on waterfront properties.

He charged small island assessments are wrongly based on market values.

This concept is wrong because small islands are different from other properties, and other factors of establishing value should be considered and used," said Mr. Nicoll.

"I contend that the most vital factor used to establish value of a small island should be value in services."

Mr. Nicoll said at one point he sold two small islands for $10,000 and $11,500 but this was market value, not "actual value," on which assessment should be based.

"Do you think the person who paid $11,500 for that island didn't think it was actual value?" asked Mr. Barsby.

"They got hooked," Mr. Inkster interjected. "Thank you very much, Mr. Inkster, thank you very much for that," said Mr. Nicoll.

'Behave Yourself'

Another time, when assessor Bosdet stood up to object to a statement by Mr. Nicoll, the latter shouted, "Sit down."

"You behave yourself," said Mr. Inkster. "Here, here, you're not running the show, Doc Nicoll."

Mr. Nicoll said his property was assessed at $1,825 in 1963 and $13,140 a year later, 720 per cent increase.

Mr. Inkster wanted to know what "actual value" or "market value" Mr. Nicoll would put on his property.

The reply was the actual value "could very well be $1,825."

"I don't think you know what you're talking about," said Mr. Inkster.

Inkster, who said $1,825 was a "ridiculous figure."

He added that, "If that is what you value Breakwater Island at, I will pay you that right now and we can adjourn this hearing."

When Mr. Nicoll tried to take issues with assessors on moral grounds and grounds of fairness, Mr. Barsby said these considerations would be more properly dealt with in argument, not in evidence.

During the morning, Mr. Inkster demanded a list of all properties bought and sold by Mr. Nicoll and the prices in all cases. The figures will be presented later.

Asks Apology

During the afternoon, Mr. Nicoll asked for an apology from an unnamed member of the court or proof of what he said. He was told by one judge the court had nothing to apologize for.

Later, Mr. Nicoll said, "I hope there will not be more hostile members of this court."

After asking twice "Who is hostile?" Mr. Inkster said, "I have nothing to be sorry for, nothing to retract. Nothing has occurred in this court that warrants retraction."

Mr. Barsby once halted the hearing on grounds Mr. Nicoll's information was irrelevant and

"I won't listen to it any more," but the hearing resumed after the court met privately.

Mr. Nicoll said he bought 75 acres on Gabriola to obtain access to his home, but claimed he was forced to sell all but 8.9 acres because of high assessments.

Assessor Bosdet said, "I can't accept that," and accused Mr. Nicoll of not presenting facts.

"There is nothing he has presented here that is relevant to the appeals," said Mr. Bosdet. "He is dealing in vague generalities. This court is after facts . . . we haven't had one."

Mr. Nicoll completed his Breakwater Island case later in the afternoon and will start his Gabriola arguments today.

Decisions on the appeals will probably be handed down later this month.

Hospital Topic Of Discussion

General situation at the Royal Jubilee Hospital will be discussed by the public affairs group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce when it meets at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the chamber board room.

At present there is controversy over the number of empty beds at the hospital.

The public affairs group is expected to present a resolution to the chamber directors after the discussion.

City Tax Sale Yields $35,656

Eighteen pieces of property were sold Monday for payment of city taxes. They brought a total of $35,656.

Seventeen of the properties were sold privately and one was bought by the city. Assessor Alfred Joyce said that values were about the same as last year.

Wharf Job Awarded

NANAIMO—The contract for construction of the long-awaited third berth at Nanaimo's Assembly Wharf has been awarded to a Vancouver firm, it was announced Monday.

The $486,576 bid of Greenlee Piledriving Co. was approved recently by the federal government. No announcement was made on when construction will begin.

Dredging of part of the harbor in the area of the assembly dock has been completed. The result of the work was 17 added acres of lumber storage area.

The dredging was carried out by Marine Pipeline and Dredging of New Westminster and cost $482,550.

BUSIEST MONTH

News of the Greenlee contract came as city harbor commissioner Max Bhut announced October was the busiest month in history for Nanaimo's port facilities.

Thirty-six freighters took about 60,000 tons of lumber and pulp from the assembly wharf and Harmac, and both figures were records. The lumber total in board feet was 28,300,000.

The port has seen 296 deep-sea ships to date this year, only three below the total for all of last year.

Courtenay Aldermen Resign

COURTENAY — The surprise resignation of 10-year Ald. Bruce Gordon and the expected resignation of Ald. Harry Harris were given to city council last night.

Mr. Harris will run for mayor against acting mayor George Hobson. There was no indication Mr. Gordon would be a candidate.

T. G. Ryan informed council he would stay on as city solicitor after resigning as a city magistrate, apparently over stipend arrangements with the provincial government.

South Has Swung Toward Johnson

Latest Harris Survey Sees Landslide Trend

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Lyndon Johnson holds a landslide lead in the popular vote over Senator Barry Goldwater in a nationwide survey completed Saturday. On a secret ballot test, Johnson finishes ahead by 62 to 33 per cent, with five per cent undecided. This compares with a 60-34-6 division reported 10 days ago.

When the undecided vote is allocated, the standings of the Harris Survey as of Oct. 31 become: Johnson, 64 per cent; Goldwater, 36 per cent. Goldwater gets the break on the undecided vote because more of these voters have a Republican than a Democratic voting history.

To assess such a massive lead with pinpoint accuracy has no real political pertinence, in the opinion of this analyst. It involves as much coincidence as skill. What does matter is this: There is a trend toward a massive Johnson victory in the 60 to 70 per cent range, a landslide by any definition.

The most striking result of the final secret ballot is that President Johnson scores a dramatic six-percentage-point gain in the South, putting him ahead of Goldwater, 52 to 48. Our interviewing indicates a clear lessening of southern criticism of the president on his handling of racial matters and a clear gain on the issue of international responsibility.

The president now has a precedent-shattering 74 per cent lead in the East, and levels out at 62 per cent in the Midwest. In the West, Johnson has turned the tide from his recent low of 57 per cent and now stands at 61 per cent.

The key to the president's showing throughout the country continues to be voter confidence in his ability to handle foreign affairs, and voter uncertainty about how Goldwater would handle questions of war and peace.

This election campaign may well mark major changes on the political map of America. Key new voting patterns to watch for in today's balloting are these:

Suburbs—Johnson stands a better chance of carrying the normally Republican suburbs of northern big cities than any Democrat in modern times. What used to be the very heartland of Republican strength may be turning into a centre of independent voting habits.

South—Goldwater bids fair to be the first Republican in this century to carry small-town and rural counties in the South. He should do exceptionally well in south Georgia, north Florida, central Alabama, northwest Mississippi, northern Louisiana, eastern South Carolina, eastern North Carolina and southern Virginia—all havens of the traditional Democratic South.

Business—The difference at the polls between members of organized labor and their employers and business executives generally is likely to be less in this election than any other time in recent political history. Johnson may gain only slightly over John Kennedy's strong run with the labor group in 1960. But with professionals and executives, Johnson will register a sharp upward increase in the normal Democratic vote, perhaps a majority.

Minorities—This election will also mark a reshuffling of the voting pattern of key ethnic minority groups. For example, the largest nationality bloc, people of German descent, has been heavily Republican in modern times. In this election, Johnson has cut heavily into the German-American vote. On the other hand, he may not do as well among voters of Italian descent as did Kennedy, while he will probably roll up a bigger majority among Irish-American voters than his predecessor obtained in 1960.

One of the most sizable shifts, both in voting percentages and in turnout, will be among Negroes, both in the North and South. They are heading toward more unanimous support of Johnson than any single group has ever given any candidate for president in recent times.

It should also be noted that 1964 has produced a significant shift in campaign issues:

● This election could very well mark a major turning point in American elections for the presidency. Barring some inordinate domestic event, there is now every likelihood that in the future voters will base their decision dominantly on foreign policy and defence considerations.

● At the outset of this campaign, the two most important issues were foreign policy and civil rights. The race question has diminished in importance as election day has grown closer, with the white "backlash" in the North lessening in intensity. Meanwhile, events in the Kremlin and Red China have intensified voter anxieties over foreign affairs, especially among women.

● Senator Goldwater has scored some late points on the morality issue. But neither the Baker nor Jenkins cases have generated the same impact on voters as the civil rights question seemed to project in late summer. The senator has also struck a responsive chord with his criticisms of the welfare state.

44 Use Gander As Escape Hatch

Embassy Finds Mikes

WARSAW (UPI) — A wired microphone system has been discovered in the U.S. embassy here, an embassy spokesman said Monday. He said it apparently was installed by secret agents of Communist Poland.

The listening equipment was found Oct. 7, the spokesman said.

Although the spokesman did not say how many devices were found, it was clear there were more than one. Observers were reminded of a U.S. state department announcement last May 19 that 40 microphones were found in the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

OTTAWA (CP) — The largest mass defection of Cubans into Canada occurred Sunday at the Gander, Nfld., international airport, the immigration department said Monday.

A total of 44 Cubans defected from a Cuban airliner after it landed at Gander for refuelling and minor repairs on a flight to Prague from Havana.

This brings to well over 200 the number of Cubans who have used the Gander airport as an escape route to join Cuban exiles in the United States.

An immigration department official said the Cubans have been granted temporary asylum in Canada in order to permit them to make arrangements to enter the U.S. This is normal procedure with Cuban defectors.

The Cubans now are being processed for temporary admission to Canada. They will be moved to immigration department quarters in Halifax, from where they will later move to the U.S.

The 44 Cubans included an elderly Cuban couple with a two-year-old child whose parents defected in a similar manner Sept. 15.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Five men, three of them from Vancouver Island, returned here Monday night after a weekend rescue that ended their three-day ordeal without shelter in northern B.C.

The five flew north last week to investigate a recent crash at Trapper Lake, 320 miles northwest of Prince Rupert, which killed four members of a prospecting team.

They had found the plane in 240 feet of water and were pulling it toward shore when they noticed their tent camp was afire. Nothing was saved.

RCAF rescue team members Sgt. N. J. Scobey, Capt. J. R. Lemieux and Cpl. B. J. Fitzgerald, all of Comox, and their companions huddled for three days in near-zero temperatures until an RCMP plane saw a "burned out" message stamped in the snow.

The five had food in a second tent but the radio was burned and their only shelter was shrouded brought along for the bodies of the victims of the earlier crash.

The other two men were transported by helicopter to Vancouver and Thomas Young of Richmond.

RCMP Const. J. Buckley of Atlin, 110 miles away, became concerned Sunday when he heard nothing on the radio. He knew the plane which flew the five men in had flown out again, so he flew to the scene and saw the snow message.

He returned to Atlin for help and later flew the five to Whitehorse Sunday night. A CPA plane completed the quintet's journey last night.

Bonaventure Blast Kills One

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (UPI) — A 48-year-old drydock worker was killed and four others sent to hospital Monday night when an explosion and fire rocked the Royal Canadian Navy aircraft carrier HMCS Bonaventure here.

Reginald Skelton of Saint John was working with four other men installing insulation in the refrigeration room of the giant vessel when the blast occurred. Navy and drydock officials said damage was confined to the room and surrounding area in the forward section of the ship.

A spokesman for Saint John Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. said no navy personnel were involved in the mishap.

The exact cause of the blast is not known, and an inquiry will be set up today.

There were some 200 men working on the Bonaventure at the time. The four injured were taken to Saint John General Hospital, where three were treated and released after suffering smoke inhalation. The fourth was admitted to hospital, also believed to have suffered smoke inhalation, but his condition was listed as satisfactory.

CANADA'S LARGEST
Canada's largest naval vessel arrived here early in the summer for refit after a trip to Cyprus in which she carried Canadian troops and equipment for the United Nations peace-keeping operations there. She was scheduled to leave the drydock Nov. 12.

A spokesman for the shipbuilding firm said he expected the refitting to be completed on schedule despite the blast.

'Election Postponed'

'Third World War' Frightens Listeners

HILVERSUM, The Netherlands (Reuters) — The Netherlands got a taste Sunday night of the scare that hit the United States in 1938 when Orson Wells broadcast his version of The War of the Worlds.

But this time, the radio audience that tuned in to a Hilversum program entitled Goldwater's New World thought they were listening to the start of the Third World War.

The program, complete with news bulletins carried in Hilversum's regular news-bulletin style, proved so realistic that the station was flooded with calls from frightened listeners convinced that war had broken out.

WEST GERMANY
Some calls came in from West Germany, where radio listeners had not heard the special announcements, broadcast before and after the show, nor seen the articles about it published in advance, explaining that it was just a scriptwriter's brainchild.

Goldwater's New World was based on the premise that the Third World War had broken out in Asia, three years after the election of Goldwater as president of the United States Nov. 1, 1967.

KENNEDY COUP
At one point during the program Robert Kennedy, backed by Americans "fed up with the president's dictatorship," staged a coup reported by a "rebel station." There was a commentary on the situation by Soviet "President" Mikhail Suslov.

But the portion of the program that apparently convinced most listeners that they were hearing the real thing said:

"President Goldwater of the United States has announced that the presidential elections that were to be held in November, 1968, will be postponed until five months after the end of the war."

Nothing Done for Six Hours After Reds Blasted Planes

SAIGON (UPI) — Government forces delayed six hours before trying to track down the Communist guerrillas who inflicted a disastrous mortar attack on the super-secret U.S. air base at Bien Hoa, it was disclosed Monday.

There was no explanation, but Vice Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky said local Vietnamese military commanders had ignored two-month-old security proposals which could have prevented the attack which killed four Americans, wounded 35 and destroyed or damaged 27 planes, 20 of them B57 jet bombers, or about half of the U.S. B57 force in Viet Nam.

U.S. officials refused to estimate the damage in dollars.

The twin-jet B57s cost $1,250,000 apiece.

Search troops found 82 empty cartons which probably contained the mortar bombs. The mortar shells were American-made and probably left over from the French Indochina war.

A U.S. spokesman said as few as 18 Communists could have carried out the intense 20-minute bombardment.

Nearsighted Caribou

Fancy Turned to Cows

MARYSTOWN, Nfld. (CP)—Caribou are nearsighted, and in the fall when a young stag's fancy lightly turns to love this can lead to complications.

A taxi driver travelling on a highway not far from here recently met a stag who had a problem over which even the lovelorn columnist might hesitate.

The stag was herding four white-faced helleys along the road. The cows were from the Flying L ranch located near here and the caribou was one of three transplanted earlier this year from the Newfoundland hinterland to Placentia Bay, on the Province's south coast.

The stag apparently wasn't worried about the difference in size. He weighed about 400 pounds while the cattle are about 1,200 pounds each.

He'll Get Over It

Fancy Turned to Cows

A. T. Bergerud, provincial wildlife biologist, said caribou during the rutting season could easily become infatuated with cows.

"When this fellow found out his mistake he probably went on his way and the cows went back to the ranch," he said. Could the Flying L expect little "cowboys" in the spring? "A biological impossibility," said Mr. Bergerud.
